

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ON CANAL WORK

IN SPEECH AT JACKSONVILLE HE OUTLINED POLICY

With Especial Reference to Our Duty Toward the Sister Republics of the South

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Oct. 21.—President Roosevelt is the guest of the oldest city in the United States tonight, and St. Augustine has put on gala attire to welcome him. From the railroad station to the Ponce de Leon hotel, where he will remain until tomorrow night, the streets were made almost as bright as day with colored lights and bonfires. The president's train arrived at 6 o'clock. He was met by a reception committee and driven to the hotel, where he remained for about half an hour. On the way to the hotel the president was driven through the city, where he was presented to the school children with a floral key to the city. The route of the drive from the station was crowded with people and the president was greeted with constant cheering.

A pretty feature of the drive which pleased the president immensely was, as his carriage was slowly passing through the city gates, a party of young ladies stationed on top of the historical gates, showered his carriage with flowers.

The president was next driven to the Hotel Ponce de Leon, where he will occupy an elegant suite of rooms while here.

At 7 o'clock the president was driven to Fort Marion, where he delivered an address. Here a large crowd had gathered and the greeting extended to him was a warm one.

In his speech at Fort Marion the president dwelt on the subject of "good citizenship," also the aims and objects of this government.

"This republic is not new and never shall be a government of plutocrats," he said. "This government is not and never shall be the government of the mob. It shall remain, as it was founded in the beginning, a government of justice, through the form of law a government wherein every man guaranteed his own rights and is forbidden to wrong his neighbors."

At the conclusion of his address the president was driven to the Valencia hotel, where he was the guest of the board of trade at supper. He then returned to his hotel.

Tomorrow he will attend the services at the Presbyterian church in the morning and in the afternoon will take a drive or horseback ride.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 21.—The reception of President Roosevelt today was a hearty one. Thousands thronged the streets on his line of march and the president showed in his manner his appreciation of the good will that was manifested on every side. So far as comfort was concerned the day was ideal. A cool wind had begun to blow the night before his arrival and it gave temperature that no one could call too warm or too cold.

It prevented, however, the delivery of his principal speech in the open air before the Seminole club, as it was thought that the wind would make it impossible for his voice to reach the assembled crowds. The speech was delivered at the exact time of the great enthusiasm and frequent applause.

The presidential party arrived at 10:30 this morning. On its arrival thousands of cheering people had gathered at the depot. A special reception committee of 100 citizens lined up, making the passage way through the depot to the street, where carriages were in waiting. There were no formal exercises at the depot and as soon as the president and his party were seated in the train, General Lovell, the grand marshal, ordered the First Florida regiment, which acted as the escort, to march, and an imposing parade began. The vehicle which the president occupied was the finest landau in the city, drawn by a magnificent pair of white horses, and in the president's carriage were the president, Governor Broward, Mayor Nolan and Secretary Loeb.

After the parade had passed through the principal streets, the president was taken to the Board of Trade, where an immense crowd greeted him with ringing cheers as he made his appearance. Mayor Nolan welcomed the president in behalf of the city and introduced Governor Broward, who presented the president to the multitude. The president said:

"Here in Florida, the first of the Gulf states which I have visited upon this trip, I wish to say a special word about the Panama canal. I believe that the canal will be of great benefit to all our people, but most of all to the states of the South Atlantic, the Gulf and the Pacific slope. When completed, the canal will stand as a monument to this nation, for it will be the greatest engineering feat ever accomplished in the world. It will be a good thing for the people of the whole, and for the people of the South Atlantic, the Gulf and the Pacific slope, and for the northern portions of South America in particular."

"Because of our special interest in it, and because of the position we occupy on this hemisphere, it is a matter of special pride to us that our nation, the American nation, should have undertaken the performance of this world duty. A body of the most eminent engineers in the world, both Americans and foreigners, have been summoned to advise as to the exact type of canal which should be built. At no distant date I hope to be able to announce what their advice is and also the action taken upon their advice."

Work is Under Way.

"Meanwhile, the work is already well under way and has advanced sufficiently far to enable me to announce with certainty that it can surely be accomplished, and probably at rather less expense than was anticipated. But upon the cost point, as well as upon the question of time, no positive statement can be made until the report of the commission of engineers as to the exact type of canal has been received. The work is as difficult as it is important, and it is a benefit to the people concerned."

The Police Power.

"In the last resort, and only in the last resort, it may occasionally be necessary to interfere by exercising what is virtually an international police power, if only to avoid seeing some European power forced to exercise it. Short, while we must interfere, always cautiously, and never wantonly, yet on rare occasions where the need is great it may be necessary to interfere, unless we are willing to confess ourselves too feeble for the task we have undertaken and to avow that we are willing to surrender it into stronger hands; and such confession and avowal I know my countrymen too well to believe that they will ever make."

The President's special train left Jacksonville at 4:45 p. m., over the Florida East Coast railway and was due to arrive at St. Augustine at 6 p. m.

PASSENGER TRAIN WAS BADLY WRECKED IN DESERT REGION

SANTA FE, N. M., Oct. 21.—Passenger train No. 425 on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad was wrecked by a spreading of the rails at Caliente, half way between Barnard and Serraville, in Taos county. P. A. Walker, of Tulsa, I. T., representing the Irrigated Lands Investment company of Denver, was pinned under the wreckage of the rear passenger coach and killed. Manuel Atencio of Santa Cruz, Santa Fe county, had a leg severed and will probably die. Several others were injured. There are no houses at Caliente and no habitation within many miles. The injured were brought to this city this afternoon.

render it into stronger hands; and such confession and avowal I know my countrymen too well to believe that they will ever make."

FRANCE AND HER FOREIGN AFFAIRS

SULTAN OF MOROCCO HAS LOST DIRECT CONTROL

No Change in Venezuelan Matters Expected During the Absence of Premier Rouvier.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Information has been received here that Count Von Tattenbach-Ashold, the German minister at Fez, and Victor Streilandre, the French minister at the same capital, are about to depart together from Fez.

This marks the practical termination of the sultan's direct control of Moroccan affairs and the beginning of the powers' assumption of authority by means of the international conference.

The Franco-German accord stipulated that both ministers should withdraw, but their actual departure closes the sultan's opportunity for further communication directly with the governments through the ministers.

The officials say that Premier Rouvier's departure for Madrid tomorrow with President Loubet for a ten days' visit to Spain indicates that no change in the Venezuelan situation is likely to occur in the near future. All now depends on President Castro's willingness to withdraw his offensive action toward Taigny, the French charge d'affaires at Caracas and considerable time will be given him before instructions are sent to the squadron now gathering at Fort de France, island of Martinique.

When this tonight until fifteen minutes before the Southern trip with the French cable company expects no difficulty in adjusting its compensation for the seized cable lines, probably by arbitration.

The Lebaudy military dirigible balloon today made its third successful flight and maneuvered against the wind. Several army officers accompanied the balloon, dropping blank cartridges upon forts from an altitude of 4500 feet, thus demonstrating the practicability of launching projectiles from dirigible balloons in times of war.

Mrs. Roosevelt Returned.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by John S. Elliott, commissioner of the interior for Porto Rico, arrived in Washington today. They had made the Southern trip with the president as far as Atlanta. Mrs. Roosevelt was in excellent health and spirits and had greatly enjoyed the trip.

POSTAL CASHIER HAS EMBEZZLED

SHORTAGE OF TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS DISCOVERED.

Arrested Man Admits the Theft and Says He Doesn't Know Where Money Went.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—Francis B. Runder, cashier of the St. Louis postoffice, was arrested this afternoon by postoffice inspectors, following the discovery of a shortage in his accounts.

Immediately after taking Runder into custody, the inspectors applied to United States District Attorney Dyer and a warrant charging embezzlement was issued. It is said Runder admitted the alleged shortage to the inspectors and said he was responsible for it, but that he did not know what had become of the money.

The federal warrant charges embezzlement of $9028. Runder was arraigned before United States Commissioner Babbitt, waived preliminary hearing and his bond was fixed at $10,000. Pending the securing of the bond he was held in the marshal's office. He declined to make any statement.

Postmaster Wyman stated that he had regarded Runder as one of the most efficient and faithful employees in the service.

"I was shocked when the inspectors informed me of the situation," he said. "The investigation of Runder's affairs is still in progress and it will continue until all the facts are obtained."

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 21.—Articles of incorporation have been filed here by the Elks' Hall association which is to erect a $50,000 club house on the corner of Second and D streets. The capital stock is $75,000 in 750 shares, fully subscribed.

SAN DIEGO BAPTISTS DISBANDED ASSOCIATION TO JOIN SANTA ANA

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 21.—The San Diego County Baptist association, which has just ended its fourteenth annual convention, has adjourned itself out of existence. By a two-thirds vote the association has disbanded and advised each of the eleven churches of which it is composed to apply for admission in the Santa Ana association. The chief reason for this action is that the local association is the smallest in the state, except that of Santa Barbara, and the union with Santa Ana will increase the strength of the denomination at large in Southern California.

ALL NIGHT BATTLE IN WESLEYAN COLLEGE FOR THE FLAG POLE

DELAWARE, Ohio, Oct. 21.—After an all night fight, the freshmen of the Ohio Wesleyan university were declared the victors over the sophomores in the annual flag pole contest. The battle started at 10 o'clock last night, the sophomores gaining and keeping possession of the pole until 2 o'clock this morning, when an army of freshmen bore down upon the sophomores and overpowered them. By the agreement before the fight, the defeated class must kneel before the victors and repeat the class yell.

TERMINAL CITIES HAD BETTER RATES THAN INTERMEDIATE POINTS

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Oct. 21.—The Lyven county grand jury today returned three indictments against the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway for alleged discrimination in passenger rates. The indictments are the outcome of inter-urban rates established between this city and Iowa City. It is alleged that residents of terminal cities were given lower rates than accorded residents of intermediate towns.

YALE MAN DEFEATED FELLOW COLLEGIAN FOR GOLF HONORS.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., Oct. 21.—Robert Abbott of Yale won the individual championship of the Intercollegiate Golf Association on the links of the Garden City Golf Club today by defeating another Yale man, Ellis Knowles, in the final round at thirty-six holes, match play, by three up and two to play. This was the result of the tenth championship tournament for intercollegiate honors and the record up to date shows Harvard a winner four times with Yale and Princeton tied with three victories each.

Catholics in Canal Zone.

PANAMA, Oct. 21.—The Rev. R. C. Russell, the Catholic chaplain at Ancon, has resigned and will leave today for New York on a special mission from Bishop Jungi to secure co-workers in the canal zone. He will confer with Cardinal Gibbons.

LAWYER COLLINS HOMEWARD BOUND

VICTORIA POLICE STOLE A MARCH ON FUGITIVE.

He Was Hustled Aboard Steamer for Seattle Without Warning to Avoid Delays.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 21.—G. D. Collins, the San Francisco lawyer who fled from the Bay City on July 8, was extradited tonight. He was suddenly hurried from Victoria at 9 p. m., in custody of Detective Thomas Gibson. Collins was ignorant of the fact that he would be extradited until fifteen minutes before his abrupt departure, which was kept secret by the police. Chief John M. Langley allowed Collins to believe that he would be taken to San Francisco by the steamer Queen on Wednesday next, stating that he would refuse to allow the prisoner to go overland for fear steps might be taken to secure his liberty upon habeas corpus proceedings at either Seattle or Portland.

Collins, anticipating his departure on Wednesday next, had planned a farewell gathering with some friends and sympathizers, but the police disappointed him. At 8:45 he was taken to the police station by the constable guarding him, upon the pretense that the guard was to be relieved by another constable at the station. In the meantime the patrol wagon had called at the Driscoll house for the lawbreaker, then, without warning, Collins and Gibson were asked to board the patrol wagon, which had been covered so that wayfarers might not notice its passenger. Chief Langley had also embarked and the patrol wagon was hurried to the Canadian Pacific railroad wharf, arriving a few minutes before the gangway was taken in, and, before any other than the police and the fugitive was aware, Collins had been extradited.

The chief of police had arranged for the sudden exit of the fugitive lawyer for several reasons. It was feared that steps might be taken by the sheriff to delay service of the warrant of surrender so that he might be secured for the money he is seeking to collect for the custody of Collins and the chief of police was also anxious to expedite the arrival of Collins at San Francisco, without danger of having the journey delayed by lawyers serving writs for habeas corpus in the states to be traversed on the route. Taken unaware, the San Francisco lawyer is unable to plan any habeas corpus proceedings to be brought en route. He will arrive at Seattle in the early morning of Sunday and before Monday morning lawyers will be across the California line.

Private Printing Plant Closed.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 21.—As the result of the strike of the printers at the local plant of the General Electric company, which has been on for the past five weeks, the company has decided to abandon its printing department and have its work done outside the works.

SECRETARY TAFT ON RAILROAD RATES

TUNNEL COMPLETED FOR MAIL CARRYING OF CHICAGO'S POSTOFFICE.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The great tunnel under the new Chicago postoffice was completed today, when the two crews of miners which for the past forty days have been working toward each other from opposite ends of the bore, finished the work of excavation, forty feet below street level. The postoffice tunnel, which is to be used exclusively for the transmission of mail matter and is one of the most important and noteworthy features of the Chicago subway, is 12 feet 6 inches wide, by 14 feet high, and extends from Jackson boulevard to Adams street, a distance of 396 feet.

Check Raiser Found Guilty.

BUFFALO, Oct. 21.—The jury in the case of Alonzo K. Whitman, of Dansville, N. Y., on trial on charges of defrauding the Fidelity Trust company, of Buffalo, by means of forged drafts, brought in a verdict of guilty today. Sentence was deferred. Application for a new trial will be made.

NO STATEHOOD YET FOR TERRITORIES

CONGRESSMAN TAWNEY'S OPINION IS NOT FAVORABLE.

More Settled Conditions Should Obtain Before Arizona or New Mexico Is Admitted.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 21.—Congressman Tawney of Minnesota, who passed through Kansas City last night en route east at the head of the congressional party that has been studying the statehood question in the West, is quoted as saying:

"Conditions are not yet ripe for the admission of either Arizona or New Mexico, or both of these territories together, into the Union. I believe that the wisest move for those two territories at this time would be to cease the agitation of the statehood question. Those territories are not ready for it, and there is no use at this time of talking about it. There is nothing wrong with the people, or the natural conditions, of New Mexico or Arizona. Both are enjoying great progress. And it is for just this reason that I expect to oppose with all my power their admission now."

"I believe now that the federal government is giving them justice in every particular. Further than that, admission to statehood would unsettle the conditions there. Capital is not going in there while political conditions are in a transitory stage and with a chance that there will be a change in the administration within the next year or two, or even three years. What the country needs out there is a settled condition for a few years at least. How many years, I should not venture to predict, though within the next five years, unless something unforeseen happens, both of those territories shall have made monstrous strides."

Another thing I am impressed with is the utter impracticability of making a single commonwealth of those two large territories."

"I can assure you that no move will be made toward statehood for Arizona in any form whatsoever at the approaching session of congress. That has been decided upon."

British Officers Captives.

TANGIER, Oct. 21.—The negotiations for the liberation of the British officers, Captain Crowther and Lieutenant Hatton, who are held by Moroccan tribesmen, have been broken off.

HAD AUDIENCE OF THE POPE

ARCHBISHOP RIORDAN RECEIVED AT THE VATICAN.

His Holiness Expressed Much Interest in American Affairs of the Catholic Church.

ROME, Oct. 21.—Archbishop Patrick W. Riordan of San Francisco was received in private audience by the pope. The pope was most cordial and showed perfect knowledge of American affairs. He manifested great interest in the progress of the Italian society there and Italian immigrants and expressed pleasure at the satisfactory reports received. The pope recalled that Archbishop Riordan had been in Rome in 1902, after the happy solution of the Pius fund question, while Pius X. was still patriarch of Venice. Archbishop Riordan found the pope in excellent health and vigorous both mentally and physically.

Among the various questions discussed at the Vatican by Archbishop Riordan was the condition of the Catholic University at Washington, concerning which Bishop Perkins of Providence spoke to the authorities during his recent visit here. Monsignor Riordan gave his ideas to the measures that should be adopted in order to bring the university to such a standard in both science and Catholicism as to make it profitable. He expressed it as his view, however, that all measures had been postponed until the commission composed of Archbishop Farley of New York, Bishop Maes of Corington, Ky., and Bishop Harkins, making his report at the next meeting of the board of directors of the university, which will be held in November.

AN ADDRESS AT AKRON IN THE OHIO CAMPAIGN.

Bryan's Growing Influence In the Democratic Party Marks the Entrance of Socialistic Wedge.

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 21.—An audience of 3000 people gathered to hear Secretary Taft's speech on the railroad rate discrimination question and state issues. The railroad question was not received with great enthusiasm, but his endorsement of Herrick was frequently applauded.

The secretary's throat was affected, causing him to speak with difficulty. Senator Dick and Congressman W. A. Thomas were on the platform at the first meeting of the large, newly organized club of this city.

Secretary Taft spoke in part as follows:

In beginning Secretary Taft indicated the national as well as the local importance of the pending campaign in Ohio. He pointed out that the defeat of Governor Herrick would be heralded as the dawn of a new Democracy, significant of what was to happen in the next congressional and presidential elections.

Bryan Assuming Control.

"The truth is, that Mr. Bryan is perfectly apparent that Mr. Bryan is gradually assuming control over the Democratic party and proposes to assume the aggressive in a controversy in which he hopes to array the poor against the rich, to shake the present system of private property and freedom of contract, to cripple the federal courts, that are now such a bulwark in the defense of the constitutional rights of individuals, to substitute for our present system of railways, privately owned and maintained, government railways and in every way to introduce a system of paternalism leaning toward socialism, which in the end would certainly paralyze the industrial and social principles of this country. This movement in favor of government ownership of public utilities to include the commercial railroads is not a mere chimera. It finds its beginning in the proposition for municipal ownership of street railways by Mayor Dunne of Chicago; by Mayor McClellan of New York and even still more in the attitude of Mr. Kearney in running against Mr. McCallan."

Secretary Taft said that Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland, known as an advocate of the single tax system and of government ownership of public utilities, was an earnest supporter of the Democratic ticket in Ohio and in his belief the triumph of that ticket would bring Bryanism and Johnsonism to the front upon the question of the fight in the next presidential campaign.

Roosevelt's Program.

"It is the purpose and always has been, of President Roosevelt, in the policies which he has recommended for adoption by congress, to meet those dangerous attacks upon our present economic, social and political conditions by remedying the actual evils which every one must recognize, and thus extending ourselves against the assaults of socialism, the suppression of individualism and the instigation of class hatred, based on alleged injustice and abuses that do not exist. He has therefore been most active in the promotion of prosecutions under the anti-trust law, and in the securing of legislation to aid in the enforcement of it. He believes, as every one must who knows anything about the subject, that perhaps the most serious abuse of the last two decades has been the unjust discrimination in railway rates as between individual shippers and as between different localities, and indeed in some instances by rates in excess of that which would be reasonable for the service itself."

Commerce Commission.

In an exhaustive discussion of the present law under which the interstate commerce commission operates, Secretary Taft explained how railroad rate questions were brought before the commission and through the commission, before the courts. He indicated many of the difficulties under which the commission operates, some of which lead to reversal of the commission's order by the courts.

"The results," said the secretary, "convince those familiar with the law and anxious that it should operate effectively, that the two changes necessary were, first, a provision authorizing the commission in declaring a rate to be unreasonable, to declare at the same time what was a maximum reasonable rate and to make an order requiring the company to reduce its rate to its maximum, and, second, that the law should, under proper penalty, require obedience to the order of the commission and thus compel the carriers to treat the order with proper respect, serving to them the opportunity to avoid its operation by a resort to the federal court and a setting aside of the order by judicial superseas on and decree."

"These two short amendments to the present law I have just described are what the president has recommended to congress. By making such changes, which are just and necessary, we can put ourselves on solid ground to resist the radical propositions of Mr. Bryan and his followers, who would take the railroads out of the hands of their owners, and that it did not even approach the government ownership. He held that the interstate commerce commission could dispose of cases brought before it as rapidly as the courts."

"The admitted truth is that the railroads in the past have intentionally given rebates to individuals and have thus ruined their competitors and that the giving of rebates was so general during the decade last passed that very few railroads were exempt from it. That giving rebates has ceased to be so general a practice, is undoubtedly true, but whether it will return when business grows dull and competition between railroads grows intense in case of business depression, no one can tell. The evils of chief moment today are undue discrimination between localities in rates and between individuals, not in rates, but in peculiar privileges."

"I do not look for any great revolution to be exerted by these amendments proposed by the president. The present interstate commerce law has done much good. As amended it will do much more good. The restrictions about the interference in railroad rates are not affected by these amendments in any respect whatever. When one calmly examines the proposed amendments they will be found to be most conservative."

Discussing Ohio state issues, Secretary Taft cordially approved of the administration of Governor Herrick.

COUNSEL FOR EMMONS ASKED NEW TRIAL ON WHISKEY GROUNDS

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 21.—Former Senator E. J. Emmons, convicted of bribery, appeared before Judge E. C. Thurston this forenoon for sentence. His counsel, after the case was called, immediately made a motion for a new trial, raising several points alleging misconduct on the part of the jurors. One of the points was that the jurors had been liberally supplied with whiskey while locked up in the jury room. Two courthouse janitors testified to having taken from twenty-five to thirty quarts of whiskey from the room. At noon a recess was taken until next Monday morning. The cases of French and Wright, former senators, accused of bribery, were continued until November 8.

SAN FRANCISCO BANK SUSPENDED

UNITED BANK AND TRUST CO. IS ORDERED CLOSED.

Bank Commission Alleges That Its Business Has Not Been Properly Conducted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—The United Bank and Trust company was closed today by the state board of bank commissioners, who announced that the bank, with its two branches in this city, and its Alameda branch, were closed "to prevent further waste" and until a court of competent jurisdiction could pass upon the matter of the institution's solvency or insolvency. The commissioners are reported to have found that the bank has not been conducted in a manner to meet with their approval. There was no run on the institution for the notice of the commissioners was posted only a few minutes before the usual hour of closing on Saturday.

The officers of the institution are as follows:

F. N. Myer, president; R. L. Cheney, secretary; G. E. Souper, assistant cashier. All of these gentlemen claim to believe that the bank is thoroughly sound and well conducted. They say that they hope to open again in a few days, and express the belief that the bank is not insolvent.

Commissioner Blackstock has been placed in temporary charge of the bank, which is charged with ignoring an order to discontinue the "unsafe practices" alleged to have prevailed in the conduct of its business. The bank is not a large institution, its capital being $212,875.

The following statement shows the financial condition of the United Bank and Trust company and its agencies on the 17th of this month:

REFORM MOVEMENT CAUSED FAILURE OF KANSAS CITY BREWERY.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 21.—Upon petition of some of its creditors, E. J. Becker of Kansas City was today appointed receiver for the Imperial Brewing Company of this city. The company owes about $625,000. The debts include $200,000 first mortgage bonds, $125,000 second mortgage bonds and about $300,000 in floating debts. The first mortgage bonds were handled by the Germania Trust Company of St. Louis, which was made trustee under the mortgage. The Germania Trust Company has since been absorbed by the Commonwealth Trust Company. The failure is attributed to the reform movement in Missouri and Kansas.

VALUABLE PAPERS FOUND BY BOYS WERE PROCEEDS OF BURGLARY

SPOKANE, Oct. 21.—A small box filled with papers was found by a boy yesterday morning in the bushes near the Washington school. He distributed the papers generously among his school mates. Some pieces were scattered around the school yard and were picked up and burned by the careful janitor. Later in the day it was discovered that the papers consisted of mining stocks, deeds, notes, etc. stolen last month from B. J. Brown of 1317 First avenue by a burglar. Up to date Brown has recovered papers valued at $15,000. How much was lost is not yet known.

CALIFORNIA BEAT SHERMAN INDIANS

STANFORD DEFEATED UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA EASILY.

Harvard Was Too Much for West Point.
University of Chicago Won From Wisconsin.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—Berkeley 21; Sherman 0.
Berkeley took a rather one-sided contest from the Sherman Indians this afternoon on the Fiesta Park gridiron. Within a few minutes after the ball was in play it was evident that the university eleven outclassed their opponents. The Berkeley men, after measuring the Indians, confined their game for the greater part to bucking the line, and never lost the ball on downs, although forced to kick twice.

On the other hand, Sherman failed to make their gains, and, as a matter of course, soon possession of the pigskin but few times during the first minutes of actual play. In defensive play, they seemed unable to mass in a manner which would stop the terrific smashes against their lines and the ball slightly advanced toward the Sherman goal throughout the game.

Meade and Snedigar, the California halves, accompanied the ball down the field a large portion of the time, smashing through the left Indian line, hurdling or bucking the tackles and heading wedge plays. Few long runs were made. Snedigar made the longest distance, carrying the ball twenty-five yards through a scattered field in the first half. Meade butted his way through seven of the Indians for a sensational gain of fifteen yards in the second half.

By consistent team work the Californians backed the line and made two touchdowns, a kicked goal and a field goal in the first half. Finding the task not difficult, the college substitutes were called in for backs during the last half and the eleven eased down, making but one touchdown and goal. It was one of the closest games ever played upon a gridiron.

There was but one man so badly injured as to be retired from the game. He was Neaphus, the crack right half of the Sherman team. He suffered a broken rib and may be out of the game several weeks. Lago filled his place during the remaining play.

Saturday next the Sherman eleven will play Stanford upon the same field. The contest is awaited with great interest as it will be an event which, in a measure, will assist the enthusiasts in sizing up the merits of the Stanford boys as compared with their rivals, the Berkeley players.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Oct. 21.—The Stanford varsity defeated the University of Nevada football team on the campus oval this afternoon by a score of 21 to 0. Nevada lost the game on fumbles and weak offensive play. At no time was the Stanford goal line in danger of being crossed by the Nevadans.

While Stanford won the game, her playing was most disappointing to the coaches. The most noticeable weakness was the extreme slowness in getting into action and executing the plays. The first score was made by Fenton, the Stanford quarterback, who placed a most drom kick between the goal posts. The other seventeen points were made on three touchdowns and three goals, the result of line bucking and straight football.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Harvard defeated West Point's football eleven today by a score of 6 to 0. Although the army team gained nearly twice as much ground as their opponents, surprised by West Point's unexpectedly strong attack, Harvard was in danger of defeat until late in the game, when she scored on a fumble by West Point.

Although the play of both teams was marked by fumbling and penalties, the entire forty-five minutes play was filled with spectacular runs and open plays which held a crowd of several thousand spectators at a high pitch of excitement. A gale of wind which swept the field lengthwise caught the punts and frequently carried the ball, sailing nearly fifty feet above the ground for two-thirds of the gridiron's length. The wind made it practically impossible to catch the punts safely. It was during the scramble after one of these fumbles that Harvard scored.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 21.—Walter Eckersall, Chicago's quarterback, today for the third time brought victory to the University of Chicago football eleven by a score of 4 to 0. Three times with the ball within scoring distance of the Wisconsin goal line, he tried to drop-kick a goal. The third trial was successful and the ball sailed squarely between the goal posts, placing four points to the credit of the maroon team. This was all the scoring done by either team.

CENTENARY OF LORD NELSON

PEOPLE OF LONDON PAID HONOR TO NAVAL HERO.

His Flagship, the Victory, Was Gaily Decorated and Trafalgar Square Was Resplendent.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—In every part of the British empire today and wherever a British man-of-war floats, the one hundredth anniversary of Nelson's victory over the combined fleets of France and Spain off Cape Trafalgar, is being celebrated. On all the ships of the navy at a given hour flags were dipped while the bands played the dead march. Nelson's old flagship, the Victory, still lying at Portsmouth harbor, was decked from stem to stern with bunting and thousands of electric lights were strung everywhere for the night illumination of the old battleship. It was proposed to illuminate the Nelson monument on Trafalgar square here, but fearing the tremendous crush of people, with the accompanying accidents, the authorities would not sanction it.

In London the day's celebration began with the hoisting of national flags on the Nelson column. Immense crowds assembled and when Nelson's famous signal, "England expects this day that every man shall do his duty," was unfurled, a mighty cheer went up.

The day was cold and threatening, but this did not deter the people from coming out to participate in the nation's holiday. Trafalgar square, which was elaborately decorated, was naturally the center to which all converged and much interest was manifested in the thousands of wreaths from the colonies, provinces and various cities of the empire which were piled in immense masses at the base of the Nelson column.

Among the floral tributes occupying the more prominent positions was a wreath inscribed:

"To the memory of the gallant dead of France and Spain who lost their lives in the great conflict."

The column itself was covered with laurels, streamers stretching from the top of the statue to the base.

The boys of the naval brigade arrived at the scene from Portsmouth during the morning and after saluting the column by presenting arms, placed on it a wreath from Admiral Togo.

Services, which were all largely attended, were held simultaneously in St. Paul's Cathedral, where Nelson is buried, and in other churches. The Navy League took charge of the celebration in the afternoon and besides the services at Trafalgar square similar ceremonies were held simultaneously under the league's auspices throughout the country, consisting of special prayers and the singing of Kipling's "Recessional" and the national anthem. In Trafalgar square the national anthem was played by massed bands, while the crowds which filled every corner of the big space joined in the singing.

Tomorrow services will be held in all the churches. Those at St. Paul's Cathedral, being of an official nature, will be attended by British naval officers and the naval attaches of the powers. Captain C. H. Stockton, the American naval attaché here, will represent the United States.

As a more permanent recognition of the centenary the Navy League proposes to improve Trafalgar square by increasing the statuary and erecting majestic fountains typifying Great Britain's naval successes.

The largest graving dock in the United Kingdom was opened today at Southampton and christened "Trafalgar Dock." It is 250 feet longer than any afloat.

Riis Will Support McClellan.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Jacob Riis, friend of President Roosevelt, and well known for his reform in the poorer districts of the East Side, declared today that he should support Mayor McClellan "until he is elected, because he has made a good, an honest and efficient and a dignified mayor; because he is George McClellan and deserves and will get the thanks of the people of New York and their votes."

Tomorrow We Will Show Three Styles Tailored Suits at $25 That Are Worth $33.50

The long jacket suits, the e-ton, the 27 inch jacket suits. These, in fact, are the three correct and most popular for this season, and while we say they are worth $33.50 we know positively that you can not match such qualities under $35.00 anywhere. The e-ton we speak of are made of real fine French broadcloth, the kind with a heavy nap, well covered with rich silky lustre. These come in three distinct styles, some with tucked collars, prettily trimmed in braid. The 27 inch jacket suits we refer to are made of all wool herringbone, velvet at neck, paneled in braid so as to give long slender lines. These are particularly good for forms that are inclined to be a little stout. Then the long 44, 46 and 48 inch jacket suits—there is an abundance of styles and shapes to choose from as well as of various cloths. When you look at them pay particular attention to the pretty bust and waist lines they have, and how well they curve from the shoulders to the waist.

CURING HURT MINDS

CALIFORNIA AND EASTERN METHODS COMPARED.

System in This State Better For Attendants; That In East Better For Patients.

By A. J. Pillsbury.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., October 7.—I have had two special ideas in mind with reference to hospitals for the insane that I may visit. One is to make inquiry regarding the profitable employment of insane labor, and the other is much more important—to learn if I can what is being done toward healing hurt minds. With the limitations of a layman it has seemed to me that our California hospitals, while doing about as much as possible for the physical care of patients committed to their charge, might do more toward curing the sick-brained men and women who come under their ministrations.

Up to the time I have visited but two hospitals for the insane, one at Toledo, Ohio, and the other at Rochester, New York, both on the cottage plan and both admirable, so far as I can tell. At Toledo not much is being done in the way of employing patient labor beyond taking care of the grounds (90 acres), and a farm of 300 acres, but more would be done if the state would furnish the shops and implements. Dr. Tobey is positive that he could make shoes, brushes, brooms, etc., at a pecuniary profit to the state and with an especial profit to the patients, who must be employed if they are to be cured.

At Rochester I found, industrially speaking, a better state of things. The clothing is all made by patient labor from cloth furnished by the prison at Auburn. All the shoes that the state has to buy for about two-thirds of the patients, are made at the institution and mainly by patient labor.

What interested me more than anything else I have seen in the way of the profitable employment of patient labor is the soap factory at Rochester hospital. It is a two-story building, well fitted up for the making of all kinds of soap from a fine article of tallow soap and a toilet soap, said to be as good as the ivory, on to common washing and scrubbing soap. It is all made with patient labor except one professional soap maker and one engineer and general utility man.

The factory runs only about three months in the fall and again in the early spring, but by so doing it makes enough soap to supply all of the fourteen hospitals for the insane in New York with their 20,000 inmates and makes it cheaper than it could be bought in the open market. It is an economic rather than a hygienic proposition, for it gives employment for only about 14 or 15 patients and these are of the highest class.

As to the healing of hurt minds I could not discern that these institutions possessed any advantage over California hospitals, except that the wards are smaller, the number of attendants more numerous, and there are more "open" wards where the patients may come and go as they wish. At Toledo there are 400 patients who have the freedom of the grounds, and there are rarely more than forty-five patients upon any of the wards.

At the Rochester institution the acute insane are given, as it appears to me, very special advantages. There are some wards that have as few as eight patients in them and as many as five attendants. This makes each case almost individual, so far as nursing is concerned, and the medical faculty hold consultations as often as twice a week over each of these acute cases until a final conclusion is reached.

Roughly speaking, twenty-five per cent of the patients admitted to the Rochester institution acutely insane are sent home cured, twenty-five per cent are sent home well enough to be cared for at home, twenty-five per cent die of their malady, and the remaining twenty-five per cent become chronic cases and remain with the institution until they live out the allotted expectancy of insane life, which is somewhere between twelve and fifteen years.

California hospitals pay much better wages than are paid at Toledo or Rochester for the service of attendants, but the institutions above mentioned have many more of them. The California system is the better for the attendants and heaven knows their duties are onerous enough at best, but there can be no doubt that the patients in the Eastern hospitals are much better looked after than they can be in California, where one attendant has so very many to look out for.

I find that little is expected of medicine in the curing of sick brains. The general health is well looked after. This done, every effort is devoted to keeping the patients comfortable, happy, and thoroughly employed at something that will take their minds off themselves and their hallucinations.

Not much is made of classifying the insane. Dr. Tobey of Toledo affirms that it is easier to classify persons outside of insane hospitals than inside, for the reason that there are fewer kinds to be classified.

As to what causes insanity, Dr. Potter of Rochester, after more than twenty years of active experience, affirms that he knows less about it than ever. It is a mystery which does not clear up.

MISSOURI PACIFIC PASSENGER TRAIN THROWN FROM RAILS.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., Oct. 21.—West-bound Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 40, carrying cars from Kansas City and St. Louis, was wrecked five miles west of Fort Scott early today, as the result of a broken rail. The baggage and express cars, mail car, smoking car, chair car and a sleeper left the track and turned over. Fully thirty persons were more or less injured but no one killed. Only three or four of the injured were seriously hurt. The train was running at the rate of thirty miles an hour. The tender struck the broken rail and left the tracks, followed by the cars. The engine alone remained on the tracks.

French Statesman's Wedding. PARIS, Oct. 21.—Clementel, minister of the colonies, and Jeanne Rimbey, widow of an English publicist, were married today at the town hall of Neuilly. Premier Rouvier acted as chief witness for the groom, and Admiral Fournier for the bride. A brilliant assemblage of cabinet ministers, army and navy officers and members of the diplomatic corps witnessed the ceremony.

Promotion for Baron Hayaishi. LONDON, Oct. 21.—In the event of a change in the cabinet at Tokio, Baron Hayaishi, Japanese minister to England, is likely to be called home to take charge of the foreign office.

THE IGNORANCE

of the majority of people about the ordinary laws of refraction of light is the foundation upon which is built a great structure of graft, dishonesty and quackery.

We offer no "medicinal glasses" and have none. Our methods are straight-forward and business-like. Our prices are based upon the amount and character of work done and are uniform.

That we can fit you is proven by the many thousands of satisfactory "Warner" cases in this county. That we will fit you is evident by the fact that we regard the good will of a satisfied customer to be worth as much as the profit from that customer.

If you do not need glasses we will not put them on you. If you need the assistance of an oculist we will recommend one. We are strictly Opticians—the new name is Optometrists—of the modern type and so solicit your patronage.

CALIFORNIA GEOGRAPHY

Should be studied by every citizen of California. It should be taught to the children, both in the school-room and in the home, as a matter of first importance. One of the easiest ways to learn California Geography is to secure one of the Fresno Republican's New Home Wall Charts. It will give you an excellent topographic relief map of California with statistics on elevations and irrigations. It will also give you a political map of the state of California, showing every county, river, railroad, town and city in the state. It also gives the population of every county, city, town and village, according to the latest government census, and this is not all. It shows you a splendid map of the United States, the Panama canal and history and statistics, it also gives you a special topographic map of Eastern Asia, Japan and the Island of Sakhalin. Also gives you a special map of the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and to add to the beauty and usefulness of these charts, we give you in beautiful colors the flags of all nations. These all make a most convenient and useful reference aid to the business man, lawyer, doctor, teacher, or any other intelligent citizen. Every office, library or home should have one of these excellent library wall charts. You can obtain one of these wall charts by subscribing or continuing the paper for six months and paying extra express charge of 20 cents. Any further particulars, address the Wall Chart Dep't., Fresno Republican, Fresno, Cal.

THE NEW ISSUES.

The only part of Secretary Taft's speech at Akron, yesterday, which aroused local applause, was his reference to the local campaign, but his analysis of the general issue, intended, of course, for the more general audience of newspaper readers, was of vast importance. It was, in fact, the most illuminating analysis of present political divisions and tendencies that has yet appeared. He called attention to the fact that Mr. Bryan's leadership of the Democratic party is now undisputed, and that Bryan is leading his party, through public ownership, towards Socialism. Numerous other indications point in the same direction. All the old reasons for the existence of the Democratic party have disappeared, and the Democratic party has found it out. But a new reason has arisen in the undoubtedly Socialistic forces now working in our society. In the demand for municipal ownership of local public utilities, and in state and national ownership of railroads, telegraphs, insurance companies, and the like, there is a rallying cry around which these forces can gather. The unquestioned evils connected with the present system give force and plausibility to that cry, and it is a movement to be reckoned with. President Roosevelt's way of reckoning with it is to recognize and cure these evils, without revolution in the system of private ownership. The only real force of the revolutionary movement is derived from these evils, and the way to neutralize the movement is to cure the evils.

This rings almost like the voice of prophecy, it is so confident and so true, and it suggests two interesting incidental conclusions. One is that the reactionists, who are opposing President Roosevelt's reforms, are only endangering themselves. If they should succeed in defeating the Republican effort to regulate the excesses of private ownership, they would only precipitate the Democratic policy of doing away with private ownership. The other is that Mr. Bryan is now, as ever, the most useful friend and unconscious guardian of the Republican party. Until Bryan came on the scene, Republicans were divided on the question of the gold standard. His radical stampede toward the single silver standard nullified all futile aspirations toward international bi-metalism, and united first the Republican party and then the nation. Republicans were divided on the question of the Philippines until Bryan's bugaboo of "imperialism" prepared everybody for a rational colonial policy. And now Bryan's economic radicalism has guaranteed the Republican party against its sole present danger—that of falling into the hands of the reactionists. The Bryan leadership of the Democratic party has insured Rooseveltian leadership of the Republican party. If the reactionists of the Cleveland-Parker type want a party and a candidate, now, they will pose as independent Democrats, and the Republicans will be well rid of them. For every one of these ultra-conservative Mugwumps driven away, the Republicans will gain a hundred progressive Democrats, who believe with Roosevelt that we are in the midst of serious evils, which must be vigorously faced, but who do not believe, with Bryan, that the way to face them is to uproot the whole foundations of society.

BOOKS AND LIFE.

Professor Gayley, in an address to the Berkeley students the other day, deplored the modern lack of "struggle for an ideal," and attributed it to reading too little of the masterpieces of all times. As a professor of literature, Professor Gayley naturally sought in literature his explanation for a fact of life; and in the university, he was probably right. University students are young, with a short experience and narrow contact with life. Their only broad environment is that of books, and the only humanizing part of their book environment is found in literature. But literature itself is only a reflection of life. It has the advantage of reflecting a wider and longer range of life than any one man's experience can compass, and of reflecting it illuminated by the insight of great souls. A life out of contact with the world of literature is barren and narrow. But a life in contact with the world of books alone is vaporous and vague. To the university boy and girl, great books offer the only view of the great facts of life. But to the grown man or woman, great books supplemented by intense and vivid experience alone develop character. A life without great books and of shallow experience is likely to be a shallow life. There are more such lives outside the university than inside, but lack of books, or the wrong books, is only a very partial explanation outside.

In the university, the student is there to work, and develop himself. It is the one time in his life when intense, earnest contact with the great books of the world is the supreme duty and pleasure, and ought to be almost a necessity. Outside the university, books must often be sought for relief in weariness, for forgetfulness in trouble, for mere amusement. "Commonplace books" will often serve the purpose better than masterpieces. They have their place. But they occupy too much place. For boys and girls, men and women, everybody, there is after all no companionship like that of great books; no inspiration like that of great thoughts, greatly expressed; no illumination like that of the divine spark of genius. We read too many books and too few good ones; too many new books and too few old ones; too much language and too little thought. A good book really tastes better than a poor one. And there is more nutriment in it.

KICK!

Kick! Kick whenever you "have a kick coming." But kick decently. A decent kick may be less relief to the overstrained nerves, but it gets what you kick for. If you must relieve the nerves, too, kick the dog. He will love you for it. But a man won't; and if it is a man you want to get things from, remember that politeness gains more favors than arrogance.

The butcher did not deliver the meat in time for dinner. You have a right to kick, and the butcher wants you to kick. He wants your trade, and if anything about his delivery system has failed to make connections, he is anxious to know it. But if you angrily inform him that he has failed to serve you out of sheer spite and a desire to lose your trade, or if you make an exhibition of sneering arrogance over the telephone, in order to impress him with the fact that you are so distinguished a gentleman that you do not need to act like one, the butcher knows that you are a fool, and that no possible effort on his part could satisfy you. So he puts himself to no particular trouble to accommodate you. Try a polite kick, and see how much better it works.

Don't imagine that you can impress any one with your superior force of character by exhibiting a total lack of self-control. Don't imagine that you can get any willing service by threats or denunciations. Don't imagine that anybody will look up to you merely because you look down on him. Don't imagine that you can win anybody's respect by expressing contempt of him. And, above all, don't imagine that it is smart to sneer and snarl, or dignified to be pompous and arrogant.

Kick! Kick firmly, if a gentle kick is received with careless indifference. Kick emphatically, if a proper request is deliberately ignored or refused. But kick decently, as you would like to be kicked to, in your own business.

RAISIN TARIFF.

The Democrat, discussing an alleged movement among grocers and brokers to secure a reduction of the raisin tariff, says: "If the grocers and brokers carry out the threat to call for the reduction of the tariff, there will be work for Congressman Needham to do, and disquieting features will be greatly increased." All of which is too true for intelligent dispute, but it is queer to see it in an organ which does dispute it, just before every congressional election. "There will be work for Congressman Needham to do," but he will be able to do it. Mr. Needham is not merely a Republican, a member of the majority, and of the party which believes in protection. He would have to be all this to be able to make even a consistent effort to retain our protective tariff. But he is, in addition, a member of the Ways and Means committee, the very committee that makes tariff laws. So long as he is in congress and on that committee, a sufficiently protective tariff on raisins is absolutely safe. If he should leave congress, and another Republican of energy and ability were sent in his place, the raisin tariff would be moderately safe. If a Democrat were in his place, the raisin tariff would not be safe at all. And yet, next year, the Democrat will be opposing the election of Congressman Needham, and advocating the election of a man who does not believe in a protective tariff, and would be powerless to sustain it, even if he did.

UNIVERSITY CREDIT.

"To state the case plainly, the power exercised over the high schools in the matter of accrediting is employed to compel parents to pay high prices for unnecessary books, and the end that favored publishers and text book compilers in the universities may reap royalties and profits. It is a species of blackmail. The way to stop it is for school boards to tell the university faculty to go to thunder, and arrange the courses of study without reference to the accrediting business, which is a humbug and an imposition."—Oakland Tribune.

If there is graft in the university accrediting system, the way to stop it is to fire the grafters out of the university, and then send them to jail. But so serious a charge as that graft and blackmail dominate the very fountainhead of our state enlightenment is not to be made lightly or recklessly, and is not to be taken seriously unless it is seriously sustained. As to the proposal that school boards shall "tell the university faculty to go to thunder, and arrange the courses of study without reference to the accrediting system," the school boards would have to do the arranging either intelligently or unintelligently, and if they did it intelligently they would find most of the work satisfactory to the university, and their schools would be on the accredited list, willy-nilly. It, as would be more likely, they did it unintelligently, they might escape the accredited list, but they would also escape educational efficiency, which would be a pretty high price to pay for the doubtful boon of independence of supervision.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21.—The predicted cold weather struck Louisiana last night, sending the temperature down into the forties over a large portion of the state. The fever situation in both the city and state continues to improve rapidly. Only one death occurred all over Louisiana yesterday. There is rapid improvement of the situation along the gulf coast. It is announced the embargo against bananas will be lifted on November 1st.

ADMIRAL TOGO VISITED TOKIO

JAPAN'S NAVAL HERO HAD A GREAT OVATION.

In Audience With the Mikado He Was Thanked for His Brilliant Services in War.

TOKIO, Oct. 22.—Noon today was made memorable in the annals of Japan by the public entry of Admiral Togo, who came to report to the emperor the return of his fleet from the war. The distinguished naval officer arrived at the Shimbashi station at 10:30 a. m. He was met by ministers of state, generals, admirals, members of the diplomatic corps and hundreds of officials and private citizens, who extended him a warm welcome to the capital. He was accompanied by his staff, and Admiral Kato, Kanamura and Dewa, together with their respective staffs.

The party entered five imperial carriages placed at their disposal and led by his majesty's aide, Admiral Inouye, and drove direct to the palace, reaching there at 11 o'clock, when they were received in audience by the emperor.

Admiral Togo's carriage, escorted by a band of troops, passed through a triumphal arch in front of the railway station. The streets were lined with an admiring crowd, who shouted hearty hurrahs as the party passed along. The enthusiastic cheers mingled with the noise of the bands was audible for a great distance.

General Sakuma detailed three battalions as guards of honor. The battalions were composed of men from the Tokyo garrison and were under the command of Major-General Togo. Four guns located at Ribiya Park fired salutes. The day was beautiful and all Tokio was out, irrespective of age, to welcome the victor of the battle of the sea of Japan.

Admiral Togo, after his audience with the emperor, returned to his ship.

In receiving Admiral Togo's report the emperor warmly praised the service rendered by him, his officers and men.

BRIDGEPORT POLICE BELIEVE CUNIFFE BURNED THE BILLS.

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 21.—The Bridgeport police believe tonight that they have accounted satisfactorily for all the $101,000 taken by Edward G. Cuniffe from the Adams Express company in Pittsburg and brought by him to this city. In the opinion of Detective Captain Arnold, based on his investigation today, Cuniffe told the truth after his arrest when he declared that he burned a part of the money stolen, and that its possession would lead to discovery.

Mrs. Henry Clark, a chambermaid at the Arlington hotel, where Cuniffe had a room while here, told Captain Arnold tonight that on October 11th, the day after Cuniffe went to the hotel, she discovered some black stains like those of wet charred paper on the carpet in his room, and also some similar stains on the bath room floor while the bowl in the bath room was clogged with burned paper.

HUNGARIAN LEADER ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF HIGH TREASON.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 21.—Nemed Deacs, private secretary of Baron Banffy, the former premier, was arrested today on the charge of high treason. The arrest of Deacs arises from his publication a month ago of the pamphlet entitled "The Hungarian crisis and the Hohenzollerns," in which the overthrow of the Hapsburgs and the establishment of the Hohenzollern dynasty in Hungary was represented as the only way to the prosperity of Hungary. Baron Banffy has been openly charged with sanctioning the publication but has denied it in the most positive terms. It is said the police seized a letter in Baron Banffy's handwriting in the rooms of the author of the pamphlet.

QUADRUPE HANGING WILL TAKE PLACE AT CARSON PENITENTIARY.

RENO, Oct. 21.—T. F. Gorman, a San Francisco printer and linotype operator; J. P. Severer, a noted ex-convict from California; Fred Roberts of St. Louis; and Al Linderman, alias Frank Williams, a Stockton, Cal., man, will be hanged at the Carson penitentiary on Friday, November 17. Twice convicted of murdering Jack Welch of Humboldt county, Nevada, they were refused another hearing by the Supreme court and were sentenced in the District court at Reno today.

COMMANDER YOUNG WAS CROSS-EXAMINED BEFORE COURT MARTIAL.

MARE ISLAND, Oct. 21.—At the opening of the Young court martial today a letter, sent to Commander Young on August 1, 1905, by Lieutenant Herbert, engineer officer, calling attention to defects in the Bennington's boilers, was admitted in evidence. On cross-examination, Commander Young repeated that on taking charge of the Bennington he made a full and careful inspection of its boilers. If the valves were in bad condition at the time of the explosion they had gotten so since he took command. He had called attention to the poor condition of the boilers in November, 1904. The defense then rested. Witnesses in rebuttal will be heard Monday.

VALUABLE PAPERS FOUND BY BOYS WERE PROCEEDS OF BURGLARY.

SPOKANE, Oct. 21.—A small box filled with papers was found by a boy yesterday morning in the bushes near the Washington school. He distributed the papers generously among his schoolmates. Some pieces were scattered around the school yard and were picked up and burned by the careful janitor. Later in the day it was discovered that the papers consisted of mining stocks, deeds, notes, etc., stolen last month from B. J. Brown of 1317 First avenue, by a burglar. Up to date Brown has recovered papers valued at $15,000. How much was lost is not yet known.

STORM ON LAKES HAS BLOWN OVER

LEAVING TRAIL OF WRECKAGE IN ITS COURSE.

Forty-Two Vessels Have Been Lost or Damaged and a Score of Lives Sacrificed.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Later returns from the storm which swept the Great Lakes for thirty-six hours, subsiding this morning, increase the known death list to twenty-one and the number of vessels either lost or damaged to forty-two. Several small craft are missing and it is feared that the death list will grow.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21.—From the best information obtainable today seven lives and nearly a score of ships were lost on the Great Lakes as a result of the terrific gale which raged for thirty-six hours, ending at daylight this morning. These are minimum figures and in all probability will be increased by later reports.

Word was received here today that wreckage coming ashore near the southeast shoal lightship is supposed to be from the tow-barge Tasmania. The boat carried a crew of eight men. Fear is entertained for the safety of the ship Sibera. She was last seen near Long Point and was then flying signals of distress.

The steamer Bulgaria came into port this afternoon bringing news of the loss of the barge Tasmania off Pelee island in Lake Erie during Friday's storm. The Tasmania sank at 5 a. m., Friday with her entire crew of eight men. Those lost were: Captain William Radford, Southwight, Ont.; First Mate George Whitely, Donkeyman Austin Mahers; Cook T. R. Terhough; Seaman Mike Doyle, August Albrick, John Pratt, Harry Laypass.

The Tasmania, together with the barge Ashland, carrying a crew of eight men, were in tow of the Bulgaria. The Bulgaria and the Ashland rode the storm off Pelee island all day Friday and Friday night and early today started for Cleveland, arriving here at 2 p. m.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Oct. 21.—The schooner Alta lies a battered hulk on the rock bound coast of Grand Island, near Munising. The crew of seven men and one woman were rescued in an exhausted condition. The schooner Olga, dismantled and rudely as at anchor off the Pictured Rocks, east of Munising. The crew is safe. Both boats parted from the steamer Myers during the storm on Thursday night. It was believed they had foundered.

DETROIT, Oct. 21.—The storm that caused such widespread damage on the Great Lakes Thursday night and yesterday is over on Lakes Superior, Huron and Michigan and is slowly passing over Lake Erie. Lake Huron reports the velocity of the wind today was only sixteen miles an hour, while on Lake Michigan it was blowing twelve miles. The water at the line kins crossing at the mouth of the Detroit river has risen to 18 feet 7 inches and the steamers heave above the crossing by the lower water hope to get into Lake Erie before many hours.

MILK SUPPLY OF SAN FRANCISCO IS PROVED TO BE AWFUL

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—City Chemist Gibbs today filed with the health board his weekly report of bacteriological examinations of samples of milk taken by the food inspectors. Which shows that the milk supply of this city in most cases is very bad. Out of eighty-nine samples analyzed by Gibbs, three contained coal particles, two were adulterated with borax, many showed the presence of pus and disease germs chemically known as staphylococci, diplococci and streptococci. Not one of the samples was free from defects, which is another name for dirt. A few of the samples were deficient in butter fat.

CRUISER LENA TO LEAVE MARE ISLAND ON SATURDAY NEXT.

MARE ISLAND, Oct. 21.—The Russian cruiser Lena, probably will leave direct for Vladivostok on Saturday next from Mare Island. She will have 2000 tons of coal in her bunkers. She will make no stay at San Francisco and will take back her complete crew, no desertion having occurred. Lieutenant Kahlin reports that at Vladivostok big ice breakers will make a way for the cruiser.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—R. K. Malone, as receiver of the Fidelity Savings association, brought suit in the Superior court today to force the former directors to return $28,618, with which he claims they used to promote the Plaza Viente Rubber Plantation and Development company. He also asks for an injunction to prevent the promoters from destroying evidences of debt to the Fidelity association.

The low pressure area has moved over the Gulf of St. Lawrence and rains have fallen over the New England states, and the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

The high pressure area which covered the greater part of the country yesterday, has contracted and divided, the major portion now lying east of the 100th meridian, causing decidedly colder weather over the Eastern and Southern states.

The pressure is decreasing west of the Rocky mountains and much warmer weather prevails west of the 100 meridian.

In California the weather is clear, with nearly stationary temperature in the interior, and cloudy, with higher temperature along the coast, except near at Eureka.

JUDGE ALLEN RECOVERS

Sacramento (Cal.) News.

"After a serious illness of over a year Judge J. R. Allen of this city has recovered and regards himself most fortunate in successfully battling with what is generally regarded as a fatal malady, Bright's Disease of the kidneys. In speaking of his case, Judge Allen said: 'I believe that the treatment given me by my physician was in accordance with the best methods used in the regular practice of medicine, but it afforded me no relief. Hearing of the Fulton Compound I went to San Francisco to investigate and was soon convinced I should undergo the treatment. It was three months before I noticed a change for the better. I used the medicine faithfully for nearly a year and can now find no evidence of the disease and am satisfied it is entirely eliminated. My appetite is good. I have gained seventeen pounds in weight and will be pleased to describe my experience to anyone who may call or write.'"

The editor of the News himself was the friend who told Judge Allen of the Fulton Compound. "They are the only things known that cure Bright's Disease and Diabetes. About 87 per cent of all cases recover. Send for free book-let."

W. C. T. U. OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

President, Recording Secretary and Treasurer Have Served Faithfully for Sixteen Years—Mrs. Mary B. Pelton of Selma a Delegate to the National Convention at Los Angeles—Miss Mary Peterson of West Park Wins the Diamond Medal Contest.

The state convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union yesterday elected officers and delegates to the national convention. The officers of last year were without exception re-elected. A number of papers were read, and in the evening, a diamond medal contest was held under the auspices of the convention, in which five young ladies of this county took part. Mrs. M. B. Pelton of Selma was elected a delegate to the national convention at Los Angeles this week.

State Officers.
For several days there had been some quiet campaigning among the delegates regarding one or another candidate for various positions, but when the time of election came, all opposition to the old officers had practically disappeared. General confidence and satisfaction was expressed in the good work of the women who had served for so long and when the vote was taken all were found to be re-elected.

It is the custom in the W. C. T. U. to have no nominations. A vote is taken at once, and the announcement usually shows a preponderance of votes for some one, who is thereupon declared elected. The officers are as follows: President, Mrs. Beaumelle Sturtevant-Peet of Mrs. D. J. Spencer of Alameda, who will preach at the United Presbyterian church on "Law as a Schoolmaster."

Stockton; vice-president, at large, Mrs. Sarah J. Dorr of San Jose; first vice-president, Mrs. E. R. Miller, of Mendocino; recording secretary, Mrs. D. J. Spencer, of Alameda; corresponding secretary, Miss Anna E. Chase; treasurer, Mrs. Emily Hopkin; auditor, Mrs. Blanche English.

Mrs. Sturtevant-Peet has already been state president for nearly sixteen years, she having succeeded from the vice-presidency to the presidency in the middle of a term. During that period, she has been one of the most prominent W. C. T. U. workers in the United States. Before coming to California, she was corresponding secretary and state organizer in Vermont. In California, she has been especially prominent in looking after legislation desired by the union, and has been well known as a lobbyist for measures regarding public morals at Sacramento. Her own personal speak of her as having one of the finest trained and legal minds in the organization.

Mrs. Hopkin and Mrs. Spencer have

OPTICIANS' BANQUET.

Local Men Are Guests of State Board of Examiners.

A very pleasant dinner was held in the Hughes cafe last night. The opticians of six counties were the guests of the State Board of Examiners of Optometry. The state board was on its way to Los Angeles, where examinations in the profession will be made next Monday and Tuesday.

The hosts last night were Dr. H. S. Kahn of San Francisco, Dr. W. H. Hare of Salinas and Dr. T. C. Chinn of Sacramento, who make up the state board. The guests were opticians from Fresno, Kern, Tulare, Kings, Madera and Merced counties. They sat down to the feast at 4:30 o'clock and did not leave until the members of the board had to prepare to go south on the Owl.

During the course of the evening the examiners explained the amount of work that has to be done by them and more particularly the grade of proficiency which knowledge demanded of persons admitted to carry on the work of opticians. The standard is constantly on the rise. About twice as much is demanded of an optician as was demanded of him a year ago. The eyesight of the people should not be treated by quacks, and it is the intention of the state board to rid the public of unreliable opticians as fast as possible.

Epworth League Praise Service.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church will hold its annual praise service this evening at the church at 6 o'clock. The subject of the evening is "Sacred Music" and Mrs. R. T. Hall is in charge. The program will be as follows: Duets, "Forever With the Lord," Walter Hastings; Chorus and Solo, "Abide With Me," by Miss Alice Brown; solo, "Just as I Am," by Miss Myra Wolfe; solo, "Tell Mother I'll Be There," Mrs. Gates; duet, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," Olive Deyo and Mary Higgins. The service will conclude with the singing of old familiar hymns by the congregation.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 21.—It is said the Canadian side of Niagara Falls has receded 300 feet during the last eighty years and an investigation will be made by the international waterways commission.

more than the necessary number of members to entitle them to one delegate, 500 were allowed to select their own delegates to the national convention. In this way, Mrs. Ethel D. Whitman, of San Jose, Mrs. Ida Estes of Stockton, and Mrs. S. M. M. Woodman, of San Leandro were chosen. The other five national delegates were elected by the convention as follows: Mrs. E. R. Miller of Mendocino, Mrs. Renowden-Hailey, of San Jose, Mrs. A. E. Bradley of San Francisco, Mrs. I. M. Holston of Santa Cruz and Mrs. M. B. Pelton of Fresno.

POSSIBLE WATER SUPPLY.

San Joaquin Valley Being Examined by Reclamation Experts.

Since early last May the United States Geological Survey has been making a preliminary examination of the San Joaquin valley with a view to possible future irrigation developments. Beginning at Jakersfield the reconnaissance has extended to date over practically the whole valley floor between that point and the San Joaquin river. Much data of practical value touching the all important subject of possible water supply has been obtained and it is probable that a report making these notes available to the public will be issued upon completion of the field work.

Harry Johnson, who is doing the work for the government along that line on this side of the valley, arrived here yesterday and will remain until tomorrow. Johnson is a graduate of the civil engineering department of Stanford University and has been in the employ of the reclamation department of the geological survey for several months. A University of Michigan man named Fisk is doing the work on the West Side.

The reclamation of arid lands in parts of the nation where such work is too big for private enterprise has been followed with much success by the government. Some of its most notable work has been done in the Yuma country, Carson valley in Nevada, and the Klamath valley.

The preliminary examination of this valley is being made with two possible openings for water supply in view—from rivers and from wells. The Tuolumne river alone seems to be open for supplying water.

ETIQUETTE DECISION AND CORSET RULING BY PRUSSIAN OFFICIALS

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—Among the odd official decisions published today is that of the Prussian railway administration on a point of etiquette advanced by a station master on the lower Rhine. Who asked for a ruling as to whether the young women subordinates in his office should not recognize him first on the street instead of waiting to be saluted, according to the prevailing custom. The government directed the station master to salute first.

The principal of the girls' high school at Saarbrücken inquired of the provincial government if she was authorized to forbid the young women to wear corsets during gymnastic exercises. The government authorized their rigid prohibition.

medal contest in the evening were Misses Violet Shepard, of Selma, Blanche Phillips of Fresno, Carmi Knauer of Reedley, Ella Glotzbach of Fresno, and Mary Peterson of West Park. Miss Anna Chase, corresponding secretary of the convention, presided. A number of musical numbers were given by Mr. and Mrs. Troup.

Miss Shepard recited a descriptive selection, "The Terrible Charge," which treated of the question of responsibility for acts under the influence of liquor. Miss Phillips recited "The Widow and Her Only Son," treating of the feelings of a mother at the prospect of her son's becoming a drunkard. Miss Knauer, under the title of "At War with the Constitution," discussed the evil done by strong drink and the need of prohibition to fulfill the purposes expressed in the preamble to the Federal constitution.

Miss Glotzbach recited "Taken by Surprise," a descriptive selection, also treating of the question of responsibility for drunken actions. Miss Mary Peterson gave an argumentative discussion of the wrongs of children of drunken parents. The latter was awarded the diamond medal, which was presented to her by Mrs. A. Rowell, of Selma.

During the time the judges were arriving at a decision, Mrs. Biggs, a white haired lady from Benicia, recited a number of original selections, the first being "What is the W. C. T. U. Doing Anyway?"

Today's Services.

This morning various local pulpits will be occupied by members of the convention.

THE SUPERIOR COURT

JOE SMITH ARRAIGNED ON DEADLY ASSAULT.

Wanted Two Weeks to Plead, but Granted Only Till Next Thursday—Day's Record of Litigation.

A strenuous effort was made yesterday by Joseph M. Smith's attorneys to get the trial of the case delayed for two weeks, but the effort failed. On next Tuesday, Joseph M. Smith must answer guilty or not guilty to the charge of assault with a deadly weapon, the firing of a pistol ball into the body of J. E. Avenell of Fowler.

Yesterday Smith with O. L. Everts and Everts & Ewing as his representatives appeared before Judge Austin for arraignment. The information was read to Smith by Clerk D. M. Barnwell and a copy of it delivered to him. Unless a date is fixed by the court the prisoner must make answer to the information between six and twenty-four hours after his reading.

"If your honor please," commented Everts, "we would like two weeks from next Monday set as the day for entering our plea." Everts explained that his law partner is ill and that he (Everts) will not have time to prepare the case for trial.

"All those against whom informations have been filed must be ready for trial by November 7th. The criminal calendar will be called at that time," said Judge Austin. "You do not need two weeks in which to prepare your plea."

Everts again made a plea for a later date. Judge Austin thought tomorrow the proper time for entering the plea. Everts asked for at least a week from that date.

"You can get your plea ready by Monday as well as by a week from Monday," said the judge.

District Attorney Jones representing the people said he did not object to putting the date for pleading forward to Thursday. Judge Austin consented to that date.

Smith was released on the bond on which he has been out on since his preliminary hearing.

Smith shot Avenell on September 22nd. The full facts in the case have never been made public. By agreement of the attorneys the words that led to the shooting were not brought out at the preliminary examination.

Other Arrangements.
Three other men accused of crime were arraigned by Judge Austin. Bert Owens, who threatened to shoot G. S. McCarter in McCarter's blacksmith shop on Fresno street, on September 25th will make his plea tomorrow. S. J. Hinds is his attorney. Owens went out on his old bond.

Dan Nolan, charged with grand larceny, will also plead tomorrow. Lee J. Allen is appearing for him. Nolan is accused of stealing a bicycle belonging to P. J. Pedersen. Giuseppe Gogatti pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Gogatti attacked Giuseppe DeDion on September 20th at El Centro. Crichton & St. Johns are defending him.

Complaints Filed.

Suit to quiet title to lots 19 to 30, block 2, lots 32 to 30, block 4, Fresno Home addition, lots 16 and 17, block 1, Hazelton addition, and lots 14 to 19, block 3, Pickwick addition, was commenced yesterday by Tessie Huber. T. J. Henderson is named as defendant. Johnston & Jones are the plaintiffs' attorneys.

A complaint on a foreclosure of a mechanic's lien was filed yesterday by Snow & Freeman for Fisher-Glass-ford Hardware Co. vs. J. M. Hoeye. The hardware company has a lien for $12.55 on Hoeye's house and lot in block 183. Judgment for costs and $75 attorney's fees are asked.

Olivia H. England wants a divorce from Fred S. England. Johnston & Jones are her attorneys. They filed her complaint yesterday.

An answer was filed yesterday by E. S. Van Meter and Geo. Cosgrave in the suit of G. P. Cummings and Thomas Martin against J. M. Johnston as administrator of the estate of J. L. Potts. The answer says that the plaintiffs by virtue of the tax sale by which they acquired their claim do not possess title to the property in question.

Martin Frowning and J. Q. Anderson have given the $300 bond of M. R. Madary in Madary's appeal from the $301.50 judgment entered against him in favor of W. A. Sutton, who was injured in Madary's mill.

Carl Gomez, a truant school boy, was lectured by Judge Austin yesterday and ordered to attend the parental school.

The estate of Ada, Leona and Jesse Moore aggregate $694.47.

BASEBALL GAMES

Tacoma Again Lost to Los Angeles by Errors and Misplay.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—Although Los Angeles made one less hit and one more error than Tacoma today, the former won the game. This fact was due to a comedy of errors and misplay in the second inning whereby the locals scored two runs without having made a hit. Score: R. H. E. Los Angeles.....4 5 3 Tacoma.....2 6 2 Batteries—Gray and Eager; Brown and Graham. Umpire—Perrine.

At San Francisco.—Seattle tied Oakland in the eighth inning today and although seven more innings were played the score of three to three could not be increased by either side. The game was called only when it was too dark to distinguish the ball. Both pitchers were touched up quite freely in the last seven innings but neither side was able to bunt the hits for a winning run. Score: R. H. E. Seattle.....3 9 1 Oakland.....3 8 4 Batteries—Shields and Blankenship; Blexrud and Ryones. Umpire—Davis.

At Portland.—The visitors won today's game through costly errors in the fifth inning, when they scored five runs on only two hits. Mitchell had a couple of muffs at first and Atz's fumble at short, with a couple of timely hits, lifted the five runs and won the game. The game was called in the eighth on account of darkness. Score: R. H. E. San Francisco.....6 6 4 Portland.....2 7 1 Batteries—Hitt and Shea; Ferry, Eslick and McLean. Umpire—Rankin.

BURLINGTON ROAD TO EXTEND ITS LINE TO SALT LAKE CITY

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 21.—General Manager Holdridge of the Burlington road today officially announced that the Burlington will at once begin the construction of 800 miles of road to extend its line to Salt Lake City. The line will start from a point near Broken Bow, Neb., and run to Bridgeport, Neb., where it will connect with the Great Northern, Wyo., line. Work on a line from Guernsey to Salt Lake will start simultaneously with that of the Broken Bow-Bridgeport cut-off. Amended articles of the Burlington road were filed with the county clerk today by General Manager Holdridge to cover the new extension, which will be part of the Nebraska, Wyoming and Western railroad, an integral of the Burlington system. The branch from Bridgeport eastward to the main line will be about 250 miles in length and the line from Guernsey to Salt Lake City 550 miles long.

Here are the facts and figures as to creamery prices in the valley. A gentleman named Peacock, representing the Cal. Cream and Butter Co., recently organized, and which would like to get into business somewhere, has been announcing broadcast that he would pay 30 cents per pound of fat for cream delivered in Los Angeles. This was the price of butter in Los Angeles the first week in October. It is now 33 3/4 cents per lb. Let us examine these figures.

In the first place, there is not a creamery in Los Angeles that does not regularly and all the time pay 12 per lb. of fat above the market price of butter for sour cream to churn. Write to them and see for yourself. This would be 31 cents as against the 30 cents of Mr. Peacock's company.

In the second place, he states that the freight on 40 per cent cream is about 2 1/2 cents per pound of fat, netting the farmer 27 1/2 cents, whereas, the fact is that the freight on 40 per cent cream is exactly 3 3/4 cents per lb. of fat, no more and no less; a misstatement of 1 1/2 cents per lb. of fat. Of course this is a mere trifle from Mr. Peacock's standpoint, but it is a very important difference from the farmer's standpoint.

In the third place, very few farmers in the valley furnish cream that runs anywhere near 40 per cent. It averages between 30 and 35 per cent. It costs the Cal. Cream & Butter Co. anybody else just $1.20 per 10 gal. can to ship cream of any per cent to Los Angeles. 10 gallons of 40 per cent cream weighs less than 82 lbs. (milk weighs 83 lbs.) and contains 32.8 lbs. of fat; 10 gallons of 35 per cent cream contains 28.7 lbs. fat, and 10 gallons of 30 per cent cream contains 24.6 lbs. of fat. The freight on 40 per cent cream is 3 3/4 cents per lb. of fat, on the 35 per cent cream it is 4 1/8 cents per lb. of fat, and on the 30 per cent cream it is 4 3/8 cents per pound of fat. Add to this the cost of hauling and delivering the cream at the railroad depot or skimming station. Where this hauling is done by large neighborhood lots it costs from 1 to 2 cents per lb. of fat, and if in smaller loads it costs more. The average cost to all creameries in the valley is about 1 1/2 cents per lb. of fat. Therefore the hauling and freight on 30 per cent cream would cost the farmer not 2 1/2 cents but 6 3/8 cents per pound of fat, and on 35 per cent cream it would cost 5 5/8 cents; and on 40 per cent cream it would cost 5 1/8 cents. It would cost 5 1/8 cents per lb. a very different result from the fine picturing of this Cal. Cream & Butter Co. Investigate the freight rates and figure it out for yourself. Also, how many extra cars and how much extra time, trouble, risk and uncertainty will be involved in trying to deliver your cream 240 miles away from home instead of right at your farm or home creamery.

In the fourth place, the scheme of shipping cream from the valley to Los Angeles for butter making purposes has been proven so often to be impracticable, that we cannot but smile at the tenacity of this new concern. We have shown you what the freight amounts to on cream per lb. of fat. The freight on butter to Los Angeles is exactly 1 1/3 cents per lb. This gives the local or valley creameries an advantage over this Los Angeles concern of freight alone of 3 5/8 cents per pound of fat on 30 per cent cream, and of 2 5/8 cents per lb. of fat on 35 per cent cream, and 2 3/8 cents per lb. of fat on 40 per cent cream for butter making purposes. This difference is larger than the entire profits of any creamery should be. It means that the local creameries can pay that much more than the Cal. Cream & Butter Co. cream, or else that said company must go busted in a little while if it pays the same price and gives the same fair-

NEW CREAMERY

WHAT THE NEW ENTERPRISE AT KINGSBURG HAS DONE TO RAISE PRICES

PREPARING CREAM BY SPECIAL PROCESS FOR ITS WHOLESALE ICE CREAM, SWEET CREAM, AND FANCY BUTTER TRADE IN LOS ANGELES HAS ENABLED THE CRESCENT CREAM CO. TO PAY SEVERAL CENTS A POUND ABOVE THE ORDINARY CREAMERIES—MORE CREAM WANTED.

The Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church gave a social in the parlors of the church on Monday evening, at which two notable guests of the society—Miss Jennie Partridge and Mrs. Dr. Myers—were present. The evening was chiefly devoted to speaking, with a few choice selections of music. Miss Partridge's talk on the work of the Y. P. S. C. was very interesting, while Mrs. Dr. Myers' vivid accounts of the missionary work in India and Ceylon, where she has been for the past five years, charmed her hearers.
Both the ladies are highly educated, and their talks were as well as instructive.

The ladies are on their way to the Presbyterian synod, which convenes this year in Redlands. After the program refreshments were served and a social evening enjoyed.

The ball team of the Iowa District defeated the Laton team in a loosely-contested and very amusing game of ball last Saturday by the decisive score of 22 to 12. Several of the Iowa boys being present at the game, the game was challenged by the Latons for a game Sunday and arrangements were accordingly made for the contest. The two teams will line-up as follows.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gower returned from a three weeks' visit to Portland Tuesday, where they witnessed the closing of the fair. They report having had a very enjoyable time visiting with friends and relatives while taking in the sights of the Northern city. Upon their arrival here they found no one at the train to meet them, having arrived earlier than they had expected, and it was with great pleasure and satisfaction that Mr. Gower stepped into the central office of the Fowler Independent Telephone company and called up the Gower ranch and ordered a rig.

The new telephone has been installed since Mr. and Mrs. Gower started on their Northern trip and its usefulness was nicely demonstrated when half an hour after their arrival at the depot they were met by their daughter and the family carriage.

Henry Simpson, an uncle of Mrs.
John Gillespie of Fresno, has been visiting with the Rev. W. B. Gillespie of the place for the last week. Mr. Simpson is a very enterprising man from Yellow Stone, Wyoming, and is making a careful study of this country, its resources and its industries, with a probable view of locating here at some future time and investing in an enterprise which will be of value to the country round about. He is well pleased with the country and the abundance of its products, and is deeply interested in the curing and packing of the dried fruits, which was new to him. Accompanied by Rev. W. B. Gillespie and John Frazier he returned Wednesday from a three days' visit through the surrounding country, greatly pleased with what he had seen.

Miss Morris and Miss Hayse, young ladies who are out sight-seeing from Pleasantville, Iowa, have been spending the week here at the home of Miss Merritt's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt, well to the south of town. Since leaving Iowa the young ladies have visited in Montana and Oregon, taking in the exposition at Portland. During their visit here they have employed most of their time looking about the country and investigating the fruit packing. Upon leaving here they will go to Los Angeles and after a visit there they expect to return home.

Lyman Paine, a young son of J. C.
Paine, a vineyardist one and a half miles south of here, was a passenger from Baker on the Owl train last Monday morning when the wreck occurred in Fresno. Lyman says he was not at all disturbed by the wreck and that he was not aware that a wreck had occurred until he had alighted from the train.

Miss Frankie Long, who has been employed as a cartoon-maker at the seedling plant of the Home Packing Company, fell from the head of the stairs at the packing house Tuesday evening, sustaining a severe bruise of the back, and being otherwise badly bruised and injured by the fall. She did not realize at the time that she was injured and soon resumed her work, but after an hour's work she began to feel the effect of the fall and soon became quite sick, having to be taken home. She has been improving rapidly, however, and although she has suffered considerably pain it is not thought that the accident will prove serious.

Fred Nelson has returned from his hunting trip in the mountains above Pellasky. So far as deer were concerned, the hunt was very unsuccessful, as Mr. Nelson did not so much as see one but he claims the honor of shooting a bear, which, although he saw the bear first, he was unable to locate afterwards owing to the thickness of the underbrush.

A pumpkin weighing 105 pounds, which was raised on the ranch of Wm.
Barnett, two miles northwest of town was brought in Tuesday by Mr. Barnett and placed on exhibition at the office of Thomas Aren.

Ed. Adams, a cousin of F. G. Adams, after selling out his business at Redlands and making a visit to Oregon and Washington, has been spending the week here with his cousin. He expects soon to return to the North, where he will go into business if he does not find something around here that suits him better.

Owing to the sudden illness of Mrs.
Ed. Barton, her mother, Mrs. Wesley Smith, was called here last week from Chico. Mrs. Barton's condition having improved, Mrs. Smith expects to return home in a few days.

Rev. Wm. Brown of Mariposa, who has been visiting his son, Andy Brown, of this place, for several weeks, left Monday evening for Riverside, where he will attend the Presbyterian synod.

Mrs. T. A. Hoag of Fresno was the guest of Mrs. E. E. Streeter on Thursday of last week.

W. H. Hudspeh returned this week from a five weeks' visit to his old home in Missouri, quite contented to remain in California.

George Frazier, who has been employed in the lumber mill at Shaver since the early part of the summer, returned to Fowler yesterday.

Charles Walden returned from Portland Thursday after a visit of three weeks in the North, during which he visited the exposition and other sights of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Brown left for Los Angeles Monday, where they expect to make a ten days' visit.

Mrs. Amanda Tubbs of Selma spent the day here Monday, visiting with her grandson, Jesse D. Pritchard.

Attorney James A. Burns of Fresno was in town on legal business yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wilson returned from a few days' visit to Yolo county.

Miss Edith Blaney of Fresno stopped off here Monday for a few hours' visit with her sister, Mrs. J. S. Mauley.
Miss Blaney is on her way to Redlands to spend a month visiting with her sister, Mrs. H. B. Watson.

Mrs. Annie Ives of Selma was the guest of Mrs. Jesse D. Pritchard today.

Walter Shaw returned from the Toll House where he had been employed since July.

Clovis, October 20.

LATON.

H. L. Schuman has sold his farm two miles west of Laton to Joe Joaquin Thomas, late of Arizona, and will go to Alberta, Canada, where he will re-enter the railroad service.

Mrs. J. W. Beall left on Monday last for Los Angeles and other Southern California points, where she will spend several weeks in visiting relatives.

Fred Fowler and son are boring a well on the new Cooper ranch, one mile northwest of Laton.

F. L. Cooper is building a house on his forty acres northwest of Laton recently purchased from the Laguna Land Company.

C. H. Forkner, who last week sold his twenty acre ranch to J. Pfeiffer of Hanford, has purchased a larger tract of land from the company and will at once improve it and build.

Andrie Saivash of Los Banos has purchased a small tract of land north of Laton. He will build at once.

P. S. Yenny of Corona has purchased ten acres of land in the subdivision north of Laton and will make his home there in the near future.

Mrs. M. W. Ede of Oakland has purchased twenty acres of Laguna land, eight miles east of Laton.

Mrs. A. W. Sifton, who lives six miles southwest of Laton, reports that her creamery check for last month was twenty-six cows was $153, a trifle over 47 for each cow. Her check for the past three months has been over $180 per month.

The machinery for the creamery is being unloaded and put in place this week. It is expected that the plant will be in operation in about ten days.

morning for a prospecting trip to the Santa Clara valley. He will visit in search of work, Morgan Hill, where he is unquestionably considerable new building is going on.

W. N. White of the United States government service, Department of the Interior, was in Laton on Sunday and made an electric test of the Laton water works well. The result shows that the water has a resistance of 2700 ohms, equivalent to about 99.95 per cent purity. The sample tested was taken from a service tap connected with the tank by about 400 feet of pipe, and water seems to be a fair average of what is furnished all users under this system.

The encampment of the G. A. R. Veterans, which has been held here during the week, broke up on Friday and most of the members departed for their homes. The original plan seems to have been to hold the meeting over next Monday, but as the attendance was much less than was expected it was found hard to keep up the interest long enough to present a decided case to disband, after a seven day session.

E. E. Crandall of Rockwell City,
Iowa, was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. C.
H. Ingram on Tuesday and Wednesday.
H. H. Johnson of the United States survey was in town Wednesday, and is surveying in the hills beyond.

W. C. Mendenhall of Los Angeles was a guest at the Hablitt on Wednesday.

John and Charles Eisenhut of Ohio, arrived in Clovis on Monday to locate.
They have already contracted for 10 acres and will buy more. Three other brothers will join them here in the near future, and they will probably locate a large tract together. John has rented a house in Woodward avenue.

Lewis Lesper of Springfield, Mo., was a new arrival in town on Monday.
R. N. and J. B. Overholzer of Bowles
Station were in town on Sunday.

Walter Swift has returned from Malaga and is working for the flume company.

S. F. Fergus and W. H. Francis of San Francisco were in town on a business trip Saturday.

Rev. W. L. Farr will preach Sunday morning at Jefferson school house, his subject being "Appreciation of Moral Excellence." No services in the even-

WHEATVILLE.

Farmers in Wheatville are busily engaged in cutting and stacking alfalfa seed, the yield of which is much better in places than was expected. Archie McKean and L. M. Fredericks each have steady threshing for some time to come.

Charles Adams of the Burrell estate, is moving from Visalia to the Elkhorn ranch, where he will begin leveling and sowing to alfalfa a large tract of land.

Work on the new road began last week and moved along slowly, as but four teams came. Quite a number of newcomers arrived this week.

Those who visited the fair at Hanford last week report a fine time and a large crowd in attendance.

A surprise party was given at the residence of H. A. Momen last Saturday night in honor of his birthday.

PRACTICAL ETHICS

A PRACTICAL MEASURE OF REFORM.

"By all that we morally admire," says James Martineau, we are practically bound. For, "to discern an excellence is to receive a trust."

In other words it we have the power to see and appreciate what is morally excellent, we are practically bound to strive for its attainment. Conversely, even the best of us sometimes lack the courage to obey the dictate, the impulsive mandate from within. We theoretically approve, what we practically are afraid to accomplish.

Knowing the right, we fail to do it.
Loving the good we fail to pursue it.
Wherein lies the fault?
We admire what is lofty and of fair repute; we are capable of appreciating excellence, but are not strong enough to "receive it as a trust," to strive for its attainment.

The trouble with us, as it has been with men and women long before us, is that we often know better than we act.
And none were more sadly aware of this disparity between man's knowing and doing than the world's greatest reformers.

This infirmity of the soul, this per-versity of the human will, which leaves so many possible benefits to mankind unrealized, was obvious to the source of the apostle's lamentation,
"What I would, I will not; that I do not, what I do, that I will not."

What is the remedy for this disinclination, this persistent refusal to act out the direction of the highest conscience? It is moral courage, the vital power which counteracts all weakness.
There is but one all-powerful liberator for the cowardly hesitant souls of men and women, but one power—invincible, urgent, insistent, moral courage!

This starting out with a better moral and spiritual equipment soon avails to sweep away the doubt and distrust, to purge the intellectual and material rubbish and give to the world, to the country, to the city in which we live, all the benefits that come from a high,
daring and lofty determination.

We listen to the expression of beautiful and noble sentiments, opening our eyes to the great vista not bounded by the selfish thought of accumulation of wealth, improvement of our own condition, but rather to the expression of the highest ideal, the highest almost with its incentive. The little turmoil of our own selfish pursuits engrosses us and we no longer lift our eyes and look along that splendid prospect leading to the mountains of sublime spiritual achievement. Would that we might hold fast to that lofty element, lifting us strong and above ourselves, making us strong in the faith of righteousness, of endeavor, of justice and of truth, determined to stand undaunted and strong for the good of all!

Let us have truth and justice in the common places of life, in the lowland of everyday existence as on the heights of great occasions. Let us have the moral courage to ever hold them supreme and thus we shall have hold of the mighty lever that shall raise society, the only practical reformatory measure, for it proceeds from the heart and conscience of man and is bound to elevate and maintain.
Thus only can we hope to have doing as well as desiring, or that practice of precepts which cements saying and doing lifts the weak and doubting to the plane of endeavor and achievement.

We all know of instances in which, though theoretically devoted to high purpose, we violate our own course of the grandest of moral laws, simply because we have not the moral courage to act on our conscience's bidding when the mandate comes.

What is the result of this passivity, this hesitancy, this dereliction on the part of one? The lowering not only of the individual, but of the society of which the individual is the component. The injuring not only of the person yielding to cowardice but the regression of the great fabric to which he belongs is the direct result of each shrinking from moral courage on the part of man. "Speak when compelled by principle, even if the whole world be silent!" Have the courage of your conviction and demand right for right's sake!

Let us remember the brotherhood of man, the claim that the dumb and enslaved have upon us. Let us insist on having more humane treatment of

Some trouble was experienced in trying to keep him till the crowd came, as he much preferred sleep to joining in the chorus of "The Good Old Summer Time." However, the crowd soon arrived and it was no doubt a genuine surprise as Henry did not smell a rat or even the faintest whiff which were served later in the evening. Time passed pleasantly with games, singing, conundrums and cards, till supper was announced

A Judicious Inquiry.
A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by all druggists.

MAXIM GORKY.

A RUSSIAN WAIF WHO BECAME A LITERARY POWER.

"Alors c'est une emette?" said Louis XVI.

"Non, sire, c'est une revolution," was the answer.
Yes, Gorky effected a revolution in Russian literature, but could do nothing for the political revolution of his country, and was arrested during his recent disturbances in Russia. This adds one more strange circumstance to his life that reads like a romance, and is, perchance, more interesting than that of Cervantes. Maxim Gorky today a world-famous Russian writer, is a child of the houseless proletariat, and his name means "bitter" in the Russian language. He has adopted it in preference to his family name of Pieskoff, probably on account of the bitterness of his former life, or his bitter attacks on the present social organization, not only of his own country, but of the whole world, the civilization to which he is not indebted for anything, his whole creative power being entirely original.

A Hard Childhood.
That is the reason why, in his short stories, in his political allegories and dramas, there are so many characteristics of unrequited barbarism, attractiveness by their simplicity and sincerity, and a sense of the limits of his own impotence. That extraordinary child of nature, who made the Russians forget Turgenieff, Dostojewsky, and Tolstoy for his own books, was born about thirty-four years ago in Nijni-Novgorod, where his father was a small upholsterer. This does not mean that Gorky is of purely plebeian origin; he belongs to the intermediate class of those castaways whom he likes to evoke in his writings. His grandfather was an officer in the Russian army during the reign of Nicholas I, but was deprived of his rank on account of his cruelty to the soldiers. As it seems, he was no kinder to his children. For Maxim Gorky's father ran away from home and became an artisan. Gorky's childhood was very hard. His mother, who was the daughter of a barge owner on the Volga, married again, and left the care of her little boy to her parents; but soon she died, and the future writer was taken from school, where he remained only five months.

On the Volga.
When Gorky was but 10 years old he was sent to a shoemaker as an apprentice, but because of the cruelty of his master he soon ran away, and wandered throughout Nijni-Novgorod, trying different occupations, till at last he got the position of kitchen boy on board a ship on the Volga. After mastering the large boat, he wrote with books by popular writers, among which there was a translation of Alexander Dumas pere, and he made the boy read as much as he could spare the time from his everyday duties. The effect of the reading was a desire to enter a college in Kazan; he thought that the instruction was given gratuitously, and his disappointment was very bitter when he found that it was not customary to give instruction gratuitously to poor children, as he said in his autobiography. Then, having no means upon which to live, he became a vagabond again. In turns he chopped wood, worked in gardens, in the streets, in a baker's shop, in the meanwhile reading all kinds of books that he could borrow from people. It was a very hard life, so much so that he could not stand it any longer, and determined to end it by shooting himself, but the only result of the attempt on his life was a long illness, and the consequent inability to serve in the army. When he recovered, he resumed his previous way of living; he was a watchman on the railway, street sweeper, cabbage vendor, house painter, till at length, by one of the capricious whims of fortune, he became clerk to a lawyer named Lanin in Novgorod. This was the turning point of his life. For Mr. Lanin, a man of superior intelligence and unusual kindness, soon understood his new clerk's propensities, took a great interest in him and helped him in his studies. "His influence on my education," says Gorky, "was enormous. To that highly educated and noble man I owe more than to anybody else."

The First Story.
Soon, however, Gorky's restless disposition got the better of him; he left his friend Lanin, and rushed to the woods for long wanderings, to which he was irresistibly attracted. He passed on foot throughout Bessarabia, the Ukraine, the country of the Don, the Crimea, the shores of the Black Sea, till at last he settled in Tiflis, where he worked in a railway shop. During his wanderings he became acquainted with a political outlaw named Kaluzyn, and this man, having noticed Gorky's extraordinary narrative talent, induced him to write a story. The first story, called "Makar Chudra," which appeared in 1892 in the daily called "Kavkaz," published in Tiflis. The success was immediate; the story attracted the critics' attention, and, encouraged by their very flattering opinion, he began to work in the literary field more systematically. In 1894 Gorky went back to Novgorod, where he probably would not have remained for a long time had he not met Korolenko, an author of great talent, himself, and thanks to whom Gorky was able to get his stories accepted by the serious reviews. He "fell into a big literature," he quaintly puts it, "for Korolenko is the editor of a monthly called Ruskoje Bagatstvo." Korolenko, one can say, finished Gorky's literary education and from that time the latter's activity increased; the critics followed every step of the young writer closely, and in about three years he became one of the most appreciated authors in Russia; a few years later he was world-famous and proclaimed to be the foremost literature for the Russian reading people, and his popularity has overshadowed even that of Tolstoy.

Shalopin, the Russian Singer.
Twelve years passed since Gorky's first appearance in the literary field, and during that time he has written six volumes of short stories, two long novels, and two plays. His work brought him not only fame, but also gold, as it seems, quite enough of it, for he was able to give Gargantuan banquets to his friends, marry an actress, and keep open house to his followers and admirers called "Podmalkim" among whom there is today the most famous and most popular Russian singer, by the name Shalopin. His friend ship with Gorky became so intimate that both vagabonds. They met in Kazan. Gorky then left his exalted position of the kitchen scullion on the steamer traveling on the Volga, and intended to go on a long tramp, in which he was joined by Shalopin and Shaville, the latter also today a remarkable singer. None of them was then aware of Gorky's talent. In a certain country town they found a small theatrical company, and the three vagabonds were then made up to the director of the company of chorus singers. Their voices were tried and the result of the trial was worthy of being recorded as the proof of "professional competence." The directors of the company decided that Shalopin, who is today idolized by the whole of Russia, had no talent whatever as a singer and actor, while he found that Gorky had most promising qualities in that direction, and engaged him.

The friends were then made up to the director of the fall and unconditional freedom of the human individual. His vagabond is nothing but a personification of human individuality. He is a foe to all fetters, whether made of iron or gold. And this inspiration produces a kind of beauty such as would come from the destructive phenomena of nature. At any rate it is neither commonplace nor tedious; one feels that there is some power in it, of what kind is another thing, but there is power. In Gorky's columns we may find some really romantic stories, as, for instance, "Song About the Falcon," "Old Woman Izergil," "Makar Chudra," all these breathe the same ruling passion for liberty. The great characteristic of Gorky's work, however, is neither that he writes about a class of people who have never been touched by the Russian literature, nor that he has given us a new and unknown type, nor that he has some realism with romanticism. His importance lies in this, that he has given us lyrical poems in which the principal hero is the human spirit and its eternal searching after the truth of life, and the truth of its own humiliating existence. But, although Gorky describes slums, dirty dens, and evil-smelling dumpsheds, and often calls things by their real names, he never arouses in us that sense of disgust which is due to the gross realism of some naturalistic novels. Smoke, dirt, smell, all disappear in the beauty of spirit life. Through his vagabonds Gorky has reached the heights of symbolism, an inspired and refined allegory. It does not matter if the vagabonds are real or not; the point is that in them we can follow the wandering of the human spirit, its rebellious opposition to the artificiality of human existence. Gorky's mind is larger than his panegyrist's talk.

Always a Great Artist.
His lyrical flight towards freedom having been expressed in an artistic picture of the vagabond is sometimes less proud and full of assurance; sometimes one feels a kind of secret awe in the presence of the power and cruelty of life, but almost always he is a great artist, and let us hope, for the sake of true art, that his new difficulties will not prove detrimental to it, and that he will give us more such realistic stories as the following one about the bull-finch:

"During an awful dullness in a forest there resounded a marvelous song the daring songster of narrow-mindedness, of the fetters of life, had declared war on the gods. All the birds flew to the spot from which that marvelous song came forth, and to their surprise they found that it was sung by a common bird, a bull-finch. He called to the birds to follow him to the dark forest, the damp marshes, to abandon cowardice and doubt. But the practical professor of modern history, the woodpecker, said that it would be useless to fly away, for 'beyond the forest is a field, empty in the summer and covered with snow in the winter, that at the other end of that field was a village, and in that village lived Grisa, the kind catcher.' The bird each did not know what to answer; he could but say: 'Yes, I lied, for I did not know what was beyond the forest, but it makes me happy to believe and hope. The woodpecker may be right, but what is the use of his truth when it weighs like a stone on the wings, and prevents one from flying high—high into the heavens?' That was the only defense he could bring forward."

Not long ago a certain clergyman from the West was called to a church in Jersey City. Soon after his arrival, the divine's wife made the usual visits to the members of the parish. One of these, a plumber's wife, was asked by the good lady whether the family were regular church-goers, whereupon the wife of the plumber replied that while she and her children were attendants at divine services quite regularly, her husband was not.

"Dear me," said the minister's wife, "that's too bad! Does your husband never go to church?"

"Well, I wouldn't say that he never went," was the reply. "Occasionally Will goes to the Unitarian, now and then to the Methodist, and I have known him to attend the Catholic church."

A look of perplexity came to the face of the visitor.

"Perhaps your husband is an agnostic," suggested she.

"Not at all," hastily answered the other; "he's a plumber. When there's nothing for him to do at one church, there is very likely something for him at one of the others."—Harper's Weekly.

The Best Doctor.
Rev. B. C. Horton, Sulphur Springs, Tex., writes, July 19th, 1902: "I have used in my family Ballard's Snow Liniment and Horsehold Syrup, and they have proved certainly satisfactory. The liniment is the best we have ever used for headache and pains. The cough syrup has been our doctor for the last eight years." Geo. H. Monroe, Special Agent.

SOME PUBLIC POLITENESS YET

If you're a woman, you probably have some positive convictions as to whether there is such a thing as public politeness. Here's a conversation a reporter overheard in a street car the other evening, after a young man and a woman of middle age had boarded it, the conductor having warned them both that there were empty seats in the car following:

"Young man, don't you think you are better able to stand than I am?" asked the woman.

"Oh, yes, madam, I think I am; but I'm not going to do it. Why didn't you wait for the next car, as the conductor told you to?"

"Humph! You must have had good training in politeness at home."

"I did, thank you."

"Humph! You show it!"

And then the young man, until the other passengers got tired of it, and a young woman with nerves got up and offered the middle-aged woman her seat. The middle-aged woman would not take it, and the young woman got stubborn and wouldn't sit down again. The seat remained vacant for about two minutes, when a husky oaf, with a grin, exclaimed as he took the seat:

"Well, if neither of you is going to sit down, I will; I ain't got no politeness."

And the first young man chuckled with delight. The two women turned their backs upon each other. They have varying opinions on the subject of public politeness.

That is how politeness is sometimes discouraged. Again:

One night last week, after the theaters were out, a young man in a car reading a newspaper, looked up and saw a good-looking, well-grounded young woman standing in front of him. He edged along and nudged the man next to him, and made room for her. Then he touched her on the shoulder and pointed to the vacant place he had made.

"Thank you," she said. "Here, sister, you sit down."

The sister was frail-looking and not nearly so attractive in appearance. The young man seemed a little crestfallen.

Soon the man next to him got up and the young man inched along and again touched the comely young woman on the shoulder, and showed her the seat.

"Here, Mary, you sit down," she said to another companion, who was decidedly plain.

The young man's smile froze into a decided frown. Again a man got out, and the young fellow inched along and offered a seat.

This time the young woman hunted up an elderly woman at the far end of the car and made room for her. The young man in disgust, muttered something about "fool woman," and went out to the rear platform and stood there.

Last Friday afternoon the reporter walked fifteen blocks and these are some of the things he saw:

Two young men picked up children who had sprawled on the street while walking with their mothers. A middle-aged man helped a feeble woman across a street. An elderly man took off his hat to a young woman after she stopped him to make some inquiry as to a street she was looking for.

No fewer than four men sprang to their feet to steady an elderly woman in a car, after it had started and while she was walking to a seat in the forward part of the car. A laborer got up in another car and gave his seat to a woman who plainly showed that she was tired.

A young woman gave her seat to an old man who insisted that he should take it. Not one woman with a baby failed to get a seat.

Not one woman who really looked tired or ill had to stand up after the men in the car got a real good look at her. No feeble person had to stand.

Here's what a big policeman, who struggled with crowds and wilts his collar and tires his arms, said:

"Certainly, there's politeness here, but you have to look for it. I see it all the time."

"Just let the people get their eyes on some one who needs help in the crush and there's lots who will give a helping hand. That's true—all except boys. It does seem as if boys hadn't any bringin' up these days."

"Here, you young loafer, stand aside and let that woman have a show," and with that he yanked a jostling bulk of a lad aside and the woman got to her seat.

Nevertheless, the reporter saw one boy, well dressed, with hair neatly combed and hands very white and clean, who got up in a car and gave a seat to a woman. She was a negro woman and had a big basket, and she looked worn out.

"Oh, yes, we try to teach the boys politeness," said a public school teacher. "I'll give you an instance: 'Only yesterday a boy in school came clattering down stairs and ran into me. He nearly knocked me over. 'I never heard more sincere apologies. He did it beautifully. As he turned away he ran off and bumped into a girl about his own age. I heard him say: 'Aw, why don't yer git out of the way?'

"Oh, yes, we teach 'em politeness, and they're polite, too—sometimes!"

And there's the everlasting question as to whether men should take off their hats in public elevators. Men don't do it in downtown elevators. Uptown some of them do.

A Chesterfield who has given this subject much thought laid down this rule for The Post reporter:

"An elevator in an office building is simply a public street. There is no more reason for one to take off his hat when one enters such an elevator and finds women there than there is that he should go bareheaded on the highway or in a street car."

"An elevator in a hotel is not a public conveyance. It is a semi-public room. By all means a man should remove his hat in one of them if there are ladies present."—Washington Post.

RAISIN SENSATION

GUGGENHIME COMPANY IS UNDER INVESTIGATION.

Raisins Loaded on Car After Inspector Had Gone—Company Claims It Was a Mistake.

Yesterday and the day before the one topic of conversation in raisin circles was a story to the effect that the Guggenheim company was caught shipping out raisins without notifying the association. The story was telephoned to San Francisco and became street talk among raisin men there. Friday evening the Republican investigated the matter, but in the face of absolute denial from all parties in authority made no use of the reported irregularities.

Despite all denials, the Republican is now in a position to state that the Guggenheim house is at present under investigation upon the charge of shipping out raisins unknown to the inspector; that the matter was referred to the Raisin Growers' company, and they in turn passed up to M. E. Farmer and Thomas H. Lynch for investigation; that the amount immediately involved was 200 cases of raisins.

The discovery was made at 9 o'clock Wednesday night. Inspector W. P. Parker was told that no more goods would be shipped out that night. He went down town, but for some reason returned to the packing house. There he saw a car being loaded. The manager of the packing house was in the office. When Parker discovered what was going on, he made a vigorous kick and the manager called the men down for loading raisins, saying he gave them orders to load figs.

The inspector reported the matter to Lynch, the packing house reported to the Mercantile company that a mistake had been made.

The next morning Lynch ordered the house closed and put a man in to take stock. Guggenheim, who was in San Francisco, came down at once. He has been in conference with the directors and packers since. There was to be a meeting in regard to the matter yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, but whether the meeting was held has not been learned. Guggenheim's explanation to the directors is understood to be an absolute disclaimer of any knowledge of the irregularity, he being in San Francisco at the time. His statement to a Republican reporter was that there was no foundation for the report whatever.

In the course of the same conversation A. Gartenlaub, president of the Mercantile company, stated that the whole thing was a mistake, reported by the Guggenheim house itself, and that some malicious persons have magnified it into a business scandal. Gartenlaub asserted that such mistakes occur every year.

A director of the association, whose name is protected for obvious reasons, spoke very hotly about the matter. "It is true," he said, "that the Guggenheim house reported the matter as a mistake, but so after the discovery was made by the inspector. It is a thing that cannot be hushed up. It must be investigated fully. The matter was put in the hands of Lynch and Tarpey, and while they are going about it as quietly as they can, they will get to the bottom of it. You cannot expect them to talk about it until they have finished their inquiry. But anything so serious as this cannot be dismissed lightly."

GRAND AND NOVELTY

Albini's Last Performance at Grand. Great Bills For Both Houses.

The great Albini will give his last performance at the Grand theater tonight and all those who have not already done so should take advantage of this last opportunity to see this most complete and wonderful exhibition of magic and mental telepathy. The great exhibition is instructive as well as entertaining and everyone who witnesses it will agree that Albini is thoroughly deserving of his title "The King of Magic." He will give an especially attractive performance at the matinee this afternoon.

The new bill, which will make its appearance tomorrow night, promises to make another week of solid pleasure for all lovers of good, clean vaudeville. The cast represented some of the best actors in the business and they are to appear in a new series of vaudeville attractions only the best results are to be expected.

The new case will consist of the following talented performers:

The Mexican Quartet, I. O. Thompson and company, comedy sketch artists; Race Smith, the colored singing and dancing comedian; Frederick Roberts in pictured melodies; Barlow's dog and monkey circus and a new series of motion pictures on the Grand-O-Scope.

Tonight's performance will also conclude the very excellent bill of vaudeville now on at the new Novelty theater. This great bill is without a doubt one of the best ever staged in Fresno and the people recognize it as much as demonstrated by the immense crowds that have gone to see it this week. Everyone is pleased and after having seen some of the acts more than once during the week, they are sorry to see them taken off. This opening bill of the Novelty theater is simply a complete success.

For its second offering the management of the new play house has arranged an entertainment that promises to be as good as and possibly better than the present one.

The following high class performers will take part in the entertainment:

The Great Leon, the East Indian illusionist; The Diamond Comedy Four, comedy sketch specialists; Fred Hayden, the concertina King; Eva Thacker, the Irish comedienne; George Keane, the favorite tenor and a new series of motion pictures.

CROCKER HERE TOMORROW.

Pivotal Director Will Attend First Packing Meeting.

Henry J. Crocker, president of the Central California Packing company—the eleventh director—will be here tomorrow and will attend his first meeting of the board. His visit is said to be without significance, further than to get acquainted. He will be accompanied by George Tournay of the German bank. E. R. Haldan, a San Francisco insurance adjuster, will also come up to represent the raisin company in the appraisal of the Selma packing house fire.

AT THE EMPIRE

A Premier Bill is Promised For This Week.

A bill of wonderfully attractive vaudeville will be concluded tonight at the Empire theater when the closing performance of the present show will be given. The spacious auditorium of the popular resort has been filled with many record crowds this week and everyone of the vast number who have seen the entertainment pronounces it all that could be asked for. The matinee crowds of the week were noticeably large. This attractive feature of the Empire's entertainment scheme is rapidly becoming very popular. Last summer at Recreation park Manager Hoen established a reputation of being able to stage a good matinee performance. In fact, the afternoon performances at the park were counted among the most pleasant of the summer pleasures. On account of Mr. Hoen's park record people are coming out in the afternoon to the Empire and they are seeing some very excellent performances. The present talented cast will give its last matinee performance this afternoon and all who have not already seen them would do well to attend.

Manager Hoen promises a great show for next week. He has secured the following well known performers: F. H. Stanfield, character comedian in the "Silly Kid"; Katherine, the peerless contortionist; Bobby Boyle and the three George sisters, assisted by F. H. Stanfield, in the catchy little playlet "The Gay Lord Smith." Each entertainment will be concluded by a new series of moving picture novelties.

TENDER BREAKS DOWN.

Bakersfield Passenger Narrowly Escapes Wrecking.

A truck on a train running fifty miles an hour broke yesterday afternoon and there was not a wreck as a result, was chance and good fortune. The Bakersfield passenger No. 82, due here on the Southern Pacific at 3 o'clock each afternoon, was flying along in Merced county near Livingston when the journal of a truck on the tender snapped. One end of the tender dropped and was dragged along the track. Ties were torn and dirt was plovied up for several hundred yards. In that distance every rail kept straight and not one of the cars went off the track.

As soon as the engineer stopped the train the passengers clambered to the ground and gathered around the tender. The wrecker in Tracy was telegraphed for and after a long wait it arrived. A new truck was placed on the tender and the train came on. It arrived in Fresno four hours late. Among the passengers was Al. Anderson.

Arrested Himself.

D. Civio came up from Madera yesterday and brought with him a warrant for his arrest. J. E. Crane, a forest ranger, swore out a warrant for him for setting fires in the reserve. Deputy Marshal Timmins left it with the sheriff of Madera to be served. When Civio came to town the sheriff told him of the warrant. Civio took the paper and came here. He appeared before Commissioner Laning and was placed under $200 bonds.

Frank Short on the War.

At the Unitarian church meeting in A. O. U. W. hall tonight, Frank H. Short will deliver a lecture on the results of the war by the East, applying to the address of Chester H. Rowell on the same subject two weeks ago. Mr. Short holds views decidedly opposed to those of Mr. Rowell, as to the advantages to this country of recent events in the Orient.

EXPRESS THIEF BADLY TREATED

THIRD DEGREE SWEATING PROCESS RESORTED TO.

Despite Eight Hours Racking by Pinkerton Men, He Gave No Further Information.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 21.—Edward C. Cunliffe, who committed the $100,000 theft from the Adams Express Company and who was captured Thursday at Bridgeport, Conn., is thoroughly exhausted today. Upon his arrival from the East last evening he was immediately taken to the local office of the Pinkerton agency, where he was put through a process of sweating by the officials that lasted until 4:30 o'clock this morning. Cunliffe later was lodged in a cell at the central police station, where he quickly removed his coat, and making a pillow of it, was soon asleep. Several newspaper reporters were permitted to visit Cunliffe today.

"I suppose you have had a strenuous time, Cunliffe," was suggested.

"Yes," he replied. "We left Bridgeport early yesterday morning and traveled all day. Then the Pinkertons put me through a terrible racking, lasting about eight hours."

Cunliffe said he was tired out. Notwithstanding the severe examination given Cunliffe by the officers, it is said no additional admissions were secured from him. The prisoner was exceedingly aggravated when told that nearly $100,000 more of the money was found wrapped in a laundry package in Bridgeport. It is believed he will remain stubborn about the remaining $11,000 and will only reveal its location when he is assured of clemency by the court.

Rumors of ill treatment, said to have been accorded Cunliffe during the "third degree" process, are persistent. While it is known food was taken into the examination room about 2 o'clock this morning, it is not known that Cunliffe partook of it. One important requisite of the "third degree" system is that of eating food before a hungry prisoner.

Man and Beast.

The president of the trust in an affable after-luncheon mood, stopped to converse with old George, a stableman of Factory 48 A.

"Well, George, how goes it?" he said, taking a dollar cigar from his mouth.

"Fair to middlin', sir," George answered. "Fair to middlin'."

And he continued to curry a bay horse, while the president smoked and looked on in good-humored silence.

"Me and this here boss," George said suddenly, "has worked for your firm sixteen years."

"Well, well," said the president, thinking a little guilty of George's $7 salary. "And I suppose you both are pretty highly valued, George, eh?"

"B'm," said George, "both of us was took sick last week, and they got a doctor for the boss, but they just docked us."

ARMOUR CAR LINE HAS A MONOPOLY

AND CAN HANDLE BUSINESS ON ECONOMY BASIS.

But as a Private Enterprise Is Entitled to Make All it Can Out of Shippers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Lincoln Green of the Southern railway resumed the stand today at the private car line hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission. He testified that his contract with the Armour car lines for refrigeration prescribes that the charges must be reasonable and no higher than charges for like service on other lines.

"In my opinion," he said, "the present rates are lower than could be made by the carriers themselves. We have had no complaints from shippers."

It was brought out that the Armour car lines are able to handle business economically for the reason that they have it all and are able to prepare for it. Commissioner Clements asked Green if he did not think the shipper should receive some of the benefits from this economical service.

Attorney Northrup, for the Southern railway, objected to the witness answering, on the ground that the question was not one of "railroad operation" but purely legal.

While discussing this from a legal point of view, Attorney Reichman said the selfishness of the Armour car lines would induce it to maintain a reasonable rate. Northrup added that the Southern railway insists also upon reasonable rates.

Commissioner Prouty interrupted to say:

"Then it is the selfishness of the Armour lines, by grace of the Southern railway, on which the shipper depends."

Protesting that the commissioner had stated the matter in an ungracious manner and unfairly, Northrup declared that "intelligence and business interests had built up the refrigeration business; that it was not a matter of 'grace'."

Attorney Reichman, in an extended argument to the commission, said it is to be presumed that a concern like the Armour car lines is doing business for the purpose of making a profit and has "horse sense" enough to make rates that would foster this business. He said that the private car lines and the railroad are distinct corporations and are not associated together for the spoliation of the shipper.

"Now," said Reichman, "I want to say that we come before this tribunal as a private enterprise. We deny that we have made unreasonable charges, but outside of all that, we again say that we are a private business institution. We went into that country as pioneers, invested our money, and as it paid a profit, put it back to develop the business. We took all the risks and hazards, and now that the enterprise is more or less successful, we are entitled to be treated fairly."

On re-direct examination, Green said the freight rate on ice, if used for the refrigeration of fruits, was reduced in 1904 from $1.05 to 75 cents per ton, as admitted by Attorney Barry, for the commission, that under the exclusive contract the Armour car line was the only concern that could get the benefit of this rate.

PURITY CONVENTION HEARD FALSE REPORTS OF IMMORAL TRAFFIC.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Consul James W. Davidson of Antung, Manchuria, in an interview today, characterized as preposterous the statement made at the recent meeting of the National Purity Conference at La Crosse, Wis., to the effect that Japanese and Chinese girls in large numbers are being exported to the United States for immoral purposes, and the supervision of the British authorities at Shanghai and Singapore. He added that the Japanese and Chinese governments do not permit girls to be exported for any purpose.

WILLIAM A. VANDERBILT OBJECTS TO ASSESSMENT OF NEW YORK HOLDINGS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—William Astor Vanderbilt, a naturalized British subject, today obtained from Justice McCallum, in the Supreme Court, writs of certiorari calling for a review by the tax commission of the assessment placed upon a considerable amount of his real estate in this city for the current year. He avers that the assessments placed upon his property are exorbitant and out of proportion with the assessment made on properties in the vicinity where his holdings are situated.

MAHAWUKKE, Oct. 21.—E. P. Bacon, chairman of the legislative committee of the Inter-State Commerce Law Convention, announced today that the result of a canvass recently made by a Newark, N. J., newspaper shows that out of a total of 587 organizations, representing various commercial, manufacturing and producing interests throughout the country, only fifteen are opposed to legislation recommended by President Roosevelt for the regulation of railway rates; equivalent to three out of every 100 organizations.

DORES MONTGOMERY MINING COMPANY OF BULL FROG

604 CROSSLEY BUILDING, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

We are offering a limited amount of treasury stock at 25c per share for development work. Our property is just 1800 feet southwest of the famous Montgomery Shoshone mine and both have unquestionably the same vein. Our group shows a well defined vein cropping out through, and it is a perfect fissure. A six inch tale seam on the hanging wall gives high values. We have also several other ledges, and it is only a matter of development work to make this property equal to any producer in the section.

CLIPPING FROM "THE REVOLITE HERALD"

A GLIMPSE AT THE WORLD BEATER MINE. WHAT IS A BLOCK OF $75 ORE. 150x150x260 FEET WORTH IN GOLD CASH? THIS IS IN SIGHT IN THE BIG SHOSHONE MINE.

Can you figure?

If you were to compute the amount of ore "in sight" in the Montgomery Shoshone Mine, Nevada's infant wonder, and had the exact measurements before you, would you believe your own eyes? Here's an opportunity to test your faith.

There are five drifts on the big ore body. The first drift is 100 feet from the portal of the crosscut tunnel, which shows 150 feet of milling ore. The other drifts follow at a space of 50 feet apart. Here are the measurements:

Drift No. 1, north 100 feet. Drift No. 2, south 60 feet. Drift No. 3, south 120 feet. Drift No. 4, north 140 feet. Drift No. 5, north 40 feet.

The winze sunk at a point 75 feet from the portal of the tunnel is 110 feet below the level and 150 feet from the surface.

The total exposure of ores in drifts No. 2 and 4 running in opposite directions, is 260 feet in length. The ore has been proven to be 150 feet in width in the crosscut tunnel, and has been proven continuous in the tunnel, and the workings are all in ore.

It is the opinion of the management of the mine that all of the ore exposed will average up to $55 a ton. If that is true there is $20,250,000 worth of ore in sight in the mine today. If the ore averages only $20, there is $7,800,000 in sight. If the ore averages only $10, there is $3,900,000 in sight. If the ore averages only $5, there is $1,950,000 in sight. These calculations are made on the basis of 15 cubic feet of ore to the ton.

The management of the Montgomery Shoshone conservatively estimates that the winze has produced $1820 worth of ore. If this is right, the ore from the winze has averaged about $975 a ton, or about $1820 worth of ore for sinking the winze being 4 x 7 in the clear.

Ore from the winze running less than $250 is thrown over the dump as milling ore. No less than 150 tons of ore has been shipped from this mine, all of it coming from the winze. Another shipment of 50 tons of ore will be made via Las Vegas in a few days.

The figures given above are startling in the extreme, but the measurements and ore values as quoted are official—direct from the management of the wonderful mine that is today astonishing the world.

This property is only 1800 feet from the Dore's Montgomery Mine

ONE MAN'S SAY.

BY HENRY HAWSON.

THIS GREAT VALLEY.

For useful information, for good reading, for amusement and for the purpose of gaining an accurate estimate of the greatness of a community, the country press is an unrivaled medium. The San Joaquin valley possesses many enterprising journalists. The busy man who reads only his home paper has but a faint conception of what is being done elsewhere. Of course, few people have the necessary time to read more than two or three papers and the exchange editor must be the means of purveying an occasional olla podrida for the benefit of the reading public. Here is the result of an industrious gleaning from the columns of some of the valley's best. It is presented in the earnest hope that the reader may find here confirmation of the belief that this is indeed a wonderful region:

Improves the Meals.

"Billie" Wilson has introduced a new idea in the dining room of the Tracy Hotel, in having the members of the fair serve the meals. Heretofore men waiters have always been employed there and they did not prove satisfactory. The result of the experiment will be awaited with interest.—Tracy News.

Baby With a Future.

A healthy, rosy nine-pound girl was born to the wife of John W. Moore yesterday. Mr. Moore is very happy over the arrival, and is building air castles already for the future of the daughter.—Stockton Independent.

Liars Can Figure.

Because his aunt sent him to school with incorrect answers to his mathematical problems, in addition to making life miserable for him in other ways, Leland Wallace, a 15-year-old boy of Altaville, left home day before yesterday and walked to Stockton to get away from her.—Stockton Mail.

Eats 'Em Alive.

Some small animal crawled into James Holman's mouth last week while he was asleep. Holman is one of the employees of the Manuel saw mills above Angels. A doctor dosed him with sweet oil and the obstruction passed into his stomach. He has felt no ill effects from the undesirable meal.—Tracy Press.

A Friendly Tip.

A Foot Lot.

There are young bloods swelling around town now and spending all the money they can get hold of, who have not brains enough to do the chore work in a livery stable.—Visalia Delta.

Can Scream Already.

George Garner is about the happiest man in town. His wife presented him with a son Tuesday evening, and George says it is an Eagle. George is an Eagle, and he says the boy will be an Eagle for he can scream now as long as any eagle that ever flopped his wings. Baby and mother are doing well.—Visalia Delta.

A Good Citizen.

A. Monetti has greatly improved his residence property in the northern part of town by the laying of a cement sidewalk around and in front of the house.—Modesto News.

In the City's Whirl.

Justice of the Peace Tom Griffin and Constable George Davis went to Merced yesterday noon on business. They lost each other by some mischance in the human maelstrom which roars and rushes through the thoroughfares of the south county metropolis, and though the magistrate made his homeward train safely enough and turned up in Modesto on time, the officer of the law was compelled to come north on the slow freight to resume the supervision of his bailiwick last evening.—Modesto News.

Easy to Identify.

Played Hokey.

For some time some of the school boys have been in the habit of playing hokey instead of attending school as they should do. One of the officers captured two of them and they appeared before Justice Barcroft this morning. They were given a lecture. One boy promised to attend school in the future and was dismissed. The other, who seems to be the leader of the gang, was given twenty-four hours in the "Jones Hotel" to think over the matter. He will probably attend regular in the future.—Madera Tribune.

When Stocktonians Hustle.

The duck-hunting season opened yesterday and a great many fellows who wouldn't do a tenth of the same amount of work around the house if paid $1 a minute for it, got up before daylight, harnessed horses in the chill of the morning, drove or walked several miles out into the tule lands, stood around in cold water clear up to their waists, climbed fences, hiked over snowed ground, and through mud and lugged guns over the country, ate their own cooking with keen relish and came home at night tired, hungry, wet, sore and dirty. They all got the limit of ducks. Nobody ever gets less than the limit except the fellows who were promised ducks.—Stockton Mail.

A Gross Label.

Dr. J. L. Butin returned today from Fresno, where he had been to endeavor to bring eighteen tourists, who are visiting the state, to Madera. He was unsuccessful, the agent had been told of the people that Madera was a little village, and that there was no side-track there where they could sidetrack their car. Consequently the party was not booked for a stopover here. That agent was either grossly ignorant or else wilfully discriminating against the town.—Madera Mercury.

Visalia as Umpire.

The Fresno and Bakersfield papers are apparently having a hard time to decide which is "six" and which is "half a dozen." Visalia is hardly in a position to stop in as peace envoy or referee, but from away off here, we feel perfectly safe in saying that there has been entirely too much gore spilled in either place for the good names of the towns in question. Now, gentlemen, why can't you both be good and pattern after your little sister Visalia? We haven't had a knock-down or a held-up here for at least ten days.—Visalia Courier.

The Smile Faded.

"I hear there is a stranger at your house," said a Mail reporter to John W. Moore today. "Yes, sir; there is," said Mr. Moore, as a proud smile played over his countenance. As the smile commenced to wear away he added: "It's a girl and she arrived yesterday morning and weighs nine pounds."—Stockton Mail.

Another Smiler.

The broad smile that illuminates the countenance of the Hollingsworths of Visalia is today is occasioned by the arrival of a bouncing daughter on the morning of October 14, 1905. Mother and baby are doing well.—Reedley Exponent.

Virtue in Distress.

Mrs. Herbert Taylor, who is a pleasant and estimable woman, and who can bake the finest cake ever made, having sent us some, therefore making us a judge, and who has a family of nice, clean, polite children, and who plays the piano beautifully and gives lessons to a few fortunate pupils in our little city, had a tooth pulled Friday.—Farmersville News.

Cursed by Canines.

Dogs are described as being the most constant and devoted friends of the human race; if this is the case Los Banos residents have true friends galore. There are more dogs in this town per square inch and far greater variety than any Eskimo village we ever heard tell of. A good dog in a community is a good thing, but fully half of the dogs in this town are too worthless to bite fleas, and too unambitious to make good tin-canning.—Los Banos Enterprise.

A Long Sentence.

Rev. G. W. Donnel, formerly association evangelist of the San Joaquin Baptist Association, and later pastor at Orosi and Reedley, and who, just previous to last March was confined to his bed for several months with a severe case of nervous prostration, but had recovered so as to be able to supply the pulpit of the Baptist church here during the summer months and upon a unanimous call of the church, has accepted the pastoral relation and has entered upon the work.—Alta Advocate.

C. F. Johnson, who accompanied Mrs. Johnson, who is entering from Bakersfield yesterday evening, Mrs. Johnson is improving.—Visalia Times.

The World Do Move.

Possibly a few of the most observant readers of the Messenger noticed that the paper came out with a new head yesterday. The old type head was getting pretty well worn and did not suit in the beginning, but it was adopted not from a state of choice but from necessity. The old head has been run for three years and at last it became our good fortune to get an electro copper-plate head cast in solid pieces. While the change isn't much, it gives the paper a better appearance and is but another one of the little steps of advancement that the Messenger is constantly taking.—Porterville Messenger.

No Men Need Apply.

Mrs. Lancaster is rebuilding her home on the ranch, five miles east of Oakdale, on the Knights Ferry road. Mrs. Lancaster and daughter, Miss Mayme, will move to the ranch in a couple of weeks and will carry on the farming themselves this year.—Modesto Herald.

Life Insurance Query.

Why should insurers complain that their reserves are used in Wall Street manipulations? Our California company, the Conservative Life, keeps the people's money at home and deposits the reserves with the state treasurer for the protection of the policy holder.

Fat Folks.

I reduced my weight 70 pounds, bust 6 inches, waist 6 inches and hips 14 inches in a short time by a guaranteed harmless remedy without exercise or starving. I will tell you all about it. Enclose stamp. Address Mrs. E. A. Richards, 228 E Ninth street, Riverside, Cal.

BROKE IN SAN FRANCISCO

"Some of these days when I settle down on that farm I've been hankering for—it's only a mirage of a farm yet—I'm going to sit down and write a little story called 'Towns I've Been Broke In'." I observed a new scate man who has done a lot of drifting around. "I've been broke all the way from here to Shanghai and back—not for very long periods at a stretch, it is true, but fitfully and unqualifiedly broke."

"I believe I could set down a fairly accurate tabulation of the hardest towns on the globe for a fellow to go broke in. San Francisco is the worst of them all."

"I'd rather be a beachcomber in Samoa or a sundowner in Australia than to be broke again in San Francisco. For real raggedness and hopelessness and no-way-outness, just try going broke in San Francisco once and see how near you will get to jumping off the dock."

"The reason why San Francisco is such a bum one when it comes to going broke there is that it's so hard to break away from the place. You see, the cluster of mountains between San Francisco and the Mississippi river is there to stay."

"You can't walk over 'em, either. It's a case of ride when you leave San Francisco, and it's a case, likewise, of paying your fare."

"If you don't happen to have the little pastebord when the conductor man drifts around and looks you in the eye, off you go, no matter whether it's in a nest of cacti or a patch of sagebrush, or just a roach of desert, 273 miles from nowhere at all. The conductor doesn't let you pick out your own ditching place."

"Conductors who run overland trains out of San Francisco are there with the abysmal brute thing all right, and they wouldn't mind it in the least if they had to whip by your bleaching bones, lying out on the desert alongside the track, 365 times a year. They're caloused to all that."

"You can sometimes get away from San Francisco by stowing away on one of the Panama steamers, but then you are dumped when you get down to the isthmus, and it's a whole lot harder to stow away on one of the up boats on the eastern side of the isthmus. I ought to know—but that isn't part of this."

"The last time I went broke in San Francisco was about twelve years ago. I don't believe I was ever worse broke in my life. I was down and out and covered up."

"There came an evening when I walked the streets hungry enough to eat a burro stuffed with Roman candles. It was a raw, chilly evening, a characteristic San Francisco evening, for the glorious climate of California, sir, doesn't mean San Francisco, which has the damkest, chilliest, rawest, foggiest, meanest climate south of Spitzbergen."

"In addition to the mastodontic appetite I had a moderately good front—just the one rig, everything else having sailed up the caves. It was in '93, and '93 was an even worse year in California than throughout the rest of the country."

"San Francisco has more restaurants in proportion to its size than any other city in America, and good eating's cheaper there than anywhere else in the United States. The restaurants sure did look warm and inviting and bright and glowy to me that evening. But I wasn't there with the price of a toothpick, and they didn't seem to be for me."

"I walked around aimlessly until I passed by the Palace Hotel. I looked into the brilliant cafe of the Palace and saw easy-looking chairs, jelling back in their chairs, the glow of the red and orange candle shades in their faces, and the petals from the cut flowers falling gently to the table cloths."

"That engaging picture didn't have any soothing effect upon me. It worked just the other way."

"I think," said I to myself, "that I shall take dinner this evening inside there. I'm hungry, and the Palace is good enough for me."

"So I walked into the cafe of the Palace."

"I objected to several seats the head-waiter picked out for me and was pretty messy in general in getting what I wanted. I told the head-waiter I wanted the right kind of a waiter—no pinhead or laggard—and he picked out the best man on his staff and sent him to me."

"I went through that Palace cafe menu from canape to crackers, and I doubled on my tracks in a couple of minutes and sent back for more."

"I'll be within the shelter of half an hour," I reflected, with considerable calmness of spirit, when I had ordered the waiter to bring me three mild Reina Victorias for $1, and had just tossed off the last pint of champagne and stood ready for the cognac and coffee, but I was liable to've turned up there sooner or later anyhow, with that appetite I had; and at that, the 'Five Courts' isn't a bad sort of place to strike with a complete stomach."

"The waiter fetched me my cigars and cognac and coffee and I lit one of the Reinas and started in to smoke peacefully."

"I suppose it'll get into the papers."

TIPPING THE WAITER

Jay Durham, an ex-Washingtonian, now one of the "Charles Frohman presents" staff, told some stories about tipping the other day. He was not referring to tips on the ponies. He meant pourboires, backsheesh, palm-ollers, mitt-greasers, the cash or currency gouged and extracted by servants of all classes who are supposed to be remunerated by their employers for serving.

"The other night, in one of those big brass-band restaurants of Harlem, the upper head of the Isle of Manhattan," said Mr. Durham, "I saw a tipping incident that reduced my collar to a starbly plump in the mere observation of it, though it was none of my business."

"An elderly, dignified man, with a planter's goatee, who struck me as being a not very prosperous Southerner, marooned in an ungenial environment, had a table close to mine."

"He ordered a sardine sandwich and a bottle of beer. As he addressed himself to the beer and the sandwich with no very manifest gusto, it seemed plain that he had entered the garish restaurant chiefly for the sake of listening to some of the band music, and that he had given his modest order as a sort of method of paying for his enjoyment of the music."

"When the band had played two pieces and the elderly man had finished his reflection, he beckoned to the waiter, a red-faced and exceedingly sulky-looking German. The man's bill was 30 cents. He put half a dollar on the shiny table."

"The waiter picked it up, giving vent to a smothered snort, and pulling two times from his change pocket, tossed them in front of the elderly man, and stood waiting, a heavy scowl on his berry chops."

"The elderly man tucked one of the dimes in his pocket, and gently pushed the other over to the edge of the table for the waiter to pick up."

"The snort the square-headed waiter gave this time wasn't a little bit smothered."

"First he deliberately flipped the 10 cent piece off the table on to the floor. Then, with a parting glare out of his inflamed, impudent eyes, he turned his back upon the elderly man, and strutted away, muttering gutturally."

"The elderly man flushed from where his white hair left off at the forehead to where his somewhat frayed but immaculately white collar began."

"It was obvious that he felt the insult and humiliation keenly. Just as he was picked up his hat to go out, the pompous German head waiter passed close to his table, and the elderly man summoned him."

"'Sir,' I heard him say in a low tone to the head waiter, who listened to him with the most perfect stolid indifference, 'one of your waiters has just subjected me to a gross and uncalled-for indignity. Reluctantly and entirely against my will, but yielding to the custom which prevails in this city, I gave him for his own use a sum of money amounting to just one-third of the price of the food and drink of which I had partaken. Before my eyes he contemptuously threw that amount of money on the floor, where it still lies. I have summoned you to inquire if such gross disrespect toward a guest has the sanction of the management of this establishment?'"

"The lordly head waiter merely shrugged his shoulders with a sort of bored deprecation, and, without a word of reply, turned his back upon the elderly man and strolled away."

"The elderly man rose and walked out, his face still crimson."

"That's the New York way."

"Now, only about a fortnight before that I had witnessed a similar incident in the city of Philadelphia—similar in its beginning, that is to say, but far different in its termination. It occurred in a Chestnut street restaurant well known for the excellence of its sea food."

"A man at a table next to mine had ordered a couple of devilled crabs and a bottle of ale. His bill was 55 cents. He gave the waiter a one-dollar bill. The waiter brought back a quarter and two dimes on his salver. The guest picked a quarter and one dime from the salver. The waiter exuded a grunt and chucked the remaining dime off the salver and on to the table. Then he walked away with a growl in his throat about 'pikers' and 'cheap skates'."

"The guest picked up the dime and stuffed it into his change pocket. Then he summoned another passing waiter and told him he wanted to see the manager of the restaurant at once. The manager was at the guest's table in less than a minute. The guest told him what he had to say in a few quiet words."

"Toll No. 14 to report here to me," said the manager to the first passing waiter."

"No. 14, the waiter who was so far above dimes as tips that he chuckled them back at the givers, presently appeared, looking surly."

"Go to the cashier and get your time," said the manager to the waiter. "Then put on your hat and coat and come back here to me."

"You are suspended for a week."

"He was having all kinds of prosperity on the Slope, he told me, and asked me how things were breaking for me. Never better, I told him, and then he pulled out his wallet and slipped me two nice "C" papers."

"That was the only piece of bull-headed luck I ever had in my life, and the only time I ever got out of a town I'd gone broke in without working my way out. And the easy break I got that one time doesn't in the least smudge up the fact that San Francisco is the craggiest town in the United States for a man to go broke in."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

"You are suspended for a week."

said the manager to the waiter. "But before you leave I want you to apologize to this gentleman for your impertinence."

"Apologize, h—!" replied the waiter. "I guess there's other hash houses in Philadelphia," and he turned to go."

"The manager, only a medium-sized, but a very muscular man, had that waiter by the shoulders, from behind, in a good deal less time than it takes to tell it. And he booted the waiter, holding him that way by the shoulders, all the way to the front entrance to the restaurant, on Chestnut street, and then all the way across the sidewalk to the curb, where the waiter was sent whirling like a top, only pulling up and getting his balance out in the middle of the street, between the car tracks."

"That's the Philadelphia way. I like the Philadelphia way. Don't you let these headbush try to tell you that folks are not awake in old Philadelphia."

"Out on the Slope, and especially in San Francisco, they're beginning to get the tipping evil by the short hair, and the tip-diffused Easterner who has never experienced it has no idea of the comfort there is in taking a meal in one of those Coast restaurants, where the tipping evil has been absolutely cut out."

"A while ago I ate, in San Francisco, the most enjoyable meal I've had in a good many years. It was at a restaurant that is just as noted on the Coast, and deservedly noted, as the best back this way."

"Above the cashier's desk was placed more than a year ago, a large framed sign painted in letters of gold on black wood. The sign read this way: 'The waiters attached to this restaurant are paid considerably above the prevailing wages for their work. They are forbidden to receive tips from guests on pain of dismissal. The management does not desire the patronage of persons who violate this rule.'"

"I never had any better service in a restaurant than the good-natured fellow who brought me my dinner in that restaurant gave me. And yet, so sunny and sudden and I became by long usage, to the practice of feeling wary, that when I rose from that table I felt sort of guilty, and I know that my gait was shambling and slouching and haggard until I got out of that waiter's sight."

"The waiter had given me a check for my food and drink and told me to pay at the desk on my way out."

"That helped some."

"But had the rule of the house permitted him to accept my money and to make the change for me and bring me the change on a salver, I am confident that I should never have had the ethical backbone, the moral stamina, to pick up all of the change and walk out. It wouldn't have been in me. I'm a weak and erring sheep, and I've been a victim of the tipping game ever since I began to shave and I'd have left some of the silver on the waiter's salver as sure as shooting—house rule or no house rule."

"It took me a good many years to muster up courage enough to tip a girl waiter. I did it for the first time in New York a few years ago."

"I had for some time been taking my luncheons at a Sixth avenue place where girls waited on the tables."

"The young woman who waited on the table I had been using for a couple of weeks was a very good waitress. She always brought me what I asked for, and never made mistakes. When she gave me my check she didn't hover expectantly around my table, either. So, one day while taking luncheon at that place, I felt to thinking it over."

"I knew that waiter girls didn't get much pay. The dress of the young woman who waited on me was shabby, though very clean. She wasn't a ragged-looking girl, either. I wondered why an occasional extra quarter wouldn't come in handy, if not a good deal handier, for a girl waiter than for a man waiter with perhaps an appetite for rum and an unquenchable belief in his eventual ability to beat the horses."

"So, when my young woman punched my check, I placed a quarter on the edge of the table and bowed myself looking straight ahead. The young woman picked up the two-bits, and said: 'Thank you very much, sir.' I've never had any hesitation in tipping competent and agreeable-mannered women waiters since. And I've never been conscious of their time, as I nearly always begrudge the time I give to male waiters, especially the chair hoyering kind."

WEEK OF REPERTOIRE AT BARTON

Miss Georgia A. Nichols, leading lady with Eckhardt's Ideals, which opens a week's engagement at the Barton tonight.

Eckhardt's Ideals open a week's engagement at the Barton tonight in popular price repertoire. The opening bill will be the great Southern melodrama in five acts entitled, "Virginia." The plot is strong and dramatic, exciting scenes follow one another in quick succession, while the comedy element is strong. The story of the play deals with a villainous miser, who kills the father of Virginia. After the miser had received the money due him on a mortgage, the miser steals the mortgage, taking the dead man's will and makes his escape, after knocking Virginia's brother Joe senseless, causing him to become half-witted. Later Virginia becomes blind and they are both turned out of their rightful home by their widowed aunt, who acts as the miser's accomplice. Of course, in the end, the villain receives his just deserts, through the untiring efforts of Virginia's sweet-heart, Captain Forrest, and their old friend, Col. Tom Bailey. Joe's reason is restored by a second attempt of the miser to assassinate him, and Virginia recovers her sight, thus ending the play happily and satisfactorily to all.

Miss Florence Young will appear as the blind girl, her favorite role; Miss Nichols, as Old Aunt Dinah, the colored mammy; Oliver J. Eckhardt as Joe, the half-wit; Miss Adelaide Powers as Mrs. Weston; W. Robt. Hildreth, as the miser. The remaining members of the company are excellently cast. Entirely new specialties will be introduced between acts, including a novelty in the way of musical numbers by the entire company.

Tomorrow night the bill will be, "Because He Loved Her," Tuesday, the sensational border melodrama, "The Great Northwest," Wednesday, the four act comedy drama, "A Fight for Honor." Thursday the company will lay off for "Peggy From Paris," resuming on Friday night with the powerful society drama "A Wicked Woman," Saturday for the matinee, "Virginia," will be repeated, on Saturday night will be the touring farce comedy "After the Ball," and on Sunday night for the farrowed performance "The Inside Track."

PRICES CURRENT

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—With the exception of a slightly easier feeling at the start, the tone of the wheat market was firm throughout the entire day. The volume of business on the whole was rather small. At the opening December was unchanged to 1/2c higher at 80 1/2c to 80 3/4c. Influenced by clear weather in the Northwest and by increased receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth, pit traders were inclined to sell. Demand from commission houses, however, absorbed the offerings at only slight losses. December closed at 80 1/2c. Toward the end of the first hour a firmer tone developed on covering by shorts. Fresh reports of drought damage to the new sown crop in the Southwest started the buying. Another factor that created some apprehension in the minds of shorts was continued urgent demand from exporters for American corn and oats. The market closed strong with December up 1/2c, and January at 44 1/2c.

The oats market was firm and fairly active. December closed at 20 1/2c; a gain of 1/2c.

The feature of trading in provisions was renewed selling of lard and ribs by local packers. At the close January pork was up 1/2c, lard was unchanged and ribs 1/2c higher.

Dried Fruit Prices.—The market for evaporated apples continues to show firmness and futures appear to be attracting more attention. Common to good are quoted at 50c to 55c; nearly all prices 1/2c to 3/4c and prices at 80c.

Raisins remain in moderate demand with spot quotations ranging from 4 1/2c to 5c according to grade.

Apples are firmly held with choice quoted at 8 1/2c to 9c; extra choice at 9 1/2c to 10c and fancy at 10 1/2c to 11c. Peaches remain nominal.

Peaches are said to be offering less freely by outsiders and the tone is firmer without any notable change in prices. Loose Muscatels are quoted at 10c to 12c; seedling raisins 5 1/2c to 6c and London layers, $1.15 to $1.20.

Butter, Cheese and Eggs.—SAN FRANCISCO.—Butter, fancy creamery, 31c seconds, 22c. Fancy dairy, normal, cheese, Eastern, 15c to 16c; Young America, 14c to 14 1/2c. Eggs, ranch 38c to 40c; store normal, Ducks, Eastern, 20c to 22c.

Oil Stock Sales.—SAN FRANCISCO.—Morning stock and oil exchange session: 1500 Associated, 54; 1000 Associated, 50; 1000 Associated, 50; 10 S. V. Water, 40 1/2.

HANFORD BUDGET.

J. F. Brown Will Put Up New Donager Building.

HANFORD, Oct. 21.—B. C. Donager opened bids last evening for his new laundry building. There were but two bidders, V. Drellwitt and J. F. Brown, and the work was awarded to the latter contractor for $31,400. The building is to be erected on lots on West Eighth street, adjoining the courthouse. It will be a one-story brick, 50x70 feet, with a brick addition, 50x22 feet.

A petition for letters of administration was filed in the Superior court for the estate of William W. Standart, on the estate of his late son, Claude W. Standart. The estate is valued at about $4750.

About twenty classmates of Roy Frederick tendered him a surprise last evening at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Frederick of this city.

Misses May, Minnie and Candace Gurnee were actresses at a successful "poverty social" given last evening to the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church.

The rally social given last night by the Epworth League of the M. E. church was attended by about 100 persons, and an interesting program was rendered, after which all partook of a box lunch.

For two, which had been prepared by the committee. This served as a means to do away with all formality and make the strangers feel perfectly at home. The remainder of the evening was very pleasantly spent socially. Following is the program: Instrumental solo, Miss Irma Hensel; reading, Miss Mealy; vocal duet, Misses Bertha and Edith Bassett; vocal solo, Miss Emma Parrish; violin accompaniment by Fletcher Magee; instrumental solo by Miss Hope McLeod; vocal duet, Misses Audra Moore and Vera Dixon; vocal solo, Miss Lola Williams.

REEDLEY.

Ed Miles, M. Enos, John Drake and Dr. Akers returned yesterday from their mountain hunting trip. They report the weather very cold and game not very plentiful.

Mrs. Anna Winnes returned from her summer vacation on the coast Sunday.

Splendid progress is being made on the foundation of the new Reedley high school building. About twenty bricklayers are at work on the building and more will be put on next week.

It is desired to rush the work as the building is needed badly.

Bert Smith purchased the old Dave Smith property from Mr. Emery last week and moved his family from the ranch to town.

Mrs. Dave Smith shipped her furniture to Porterville this week. Mr. Smith is in business there.

Joe Miller's residence was finished the first of the week and he moved his family to their new home.

Reedley, October 21st, 1905.

JEWELER'S SON IS IMPLICATED IN THEFT OF TRAY OF JEWELS

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 21.—The $6000 worth of diamonds and emeralds set in forty-seven rings stolen from C. E. Redfern's jewelry store on Tuesday night were recovered tonight at Vancouver, B. C., where they had been hidden by the persons who took them from the store.

Harry Redfern, son of the proprietor of the store, his cousin, C. Kurtz, and a woman of Vancouver, are said to have been in the store at a late hour on the night the jewels were taken. Kurtz is stated, accompanied Detective Palmer to Vancouver today where the case will be covered. It is not probable there will be any prosecutions.

LABORER ROBBED

AND ALLEGED ROBBERS ARE IN VISALIA JAIL.

William Kincaid Taken From Jail to Bedside of His Dying Mother.

Mother.

VISALIA, Oct. 21.—Two young men named Bert Gifford and Rowell Root were arrested this afternoon, the first at the Mineral King ranch, four miles east of this city, and the latter at Tulare and have been locked up charged with robbery. The accusation is made by a man named Gus Horitz, a laborer on the Mineral King ranch, from whom the sum of $47.80 was taken on Thursday.

It appears that recently Root went to Horitz and borrowed $20.00 in the corner of the room and procured the money. Thursday Horitz returned home and the locker rifled and the money gone. The foreman of the ranch saw Gifford coming from the house on the day in question. Other suspicious circumstances have led to the arrest of the two men.

Gifford and Root were taken into custody several weeks ago for abandoning a rig hired at a local station, the horse ran away and smashed the vehicle. They were intoxicated at the time.

William Kincaid and Tom Stokes, charged with knocking down and robbing a man named Connolly in the rear of the Visalia House Wednesday, were arraigned this afternoon before Justice Clark and their preliminary examinations set for the 1st and 2nd of November, respectively. Their bail was fixed at $10,000 each. An effort is being made to raise the amount for Stokes.

The death of Mrs. Mary Kincaid occurred this morning about 11:30 o'clock. She was an invalid and had been ill for several years. The deceased was a native of Ireland, aged 78 years, but had been a resident of this city for forty years.

There was an affecting scene this morning when William Kincaid, a son of the deceased, who is in jail accused of robbery, was permitted to go to her bedside in charge of Deputy Sheriff Douglass. Kincaid will also be permitted to attend the funeral which will take place from the Catholic church at 10 o'clock on Monday. The interment being in the city cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Parish gave an informal card party last night at the Ballroom in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Bradley of Santa Barbara. The evening was passed in playing the popular game of "500" at which prizes were awarded. Mrs. Ida Atkinson won the first prize for ladies and H. A. Chase the first for gentlemen, being a hand-tray and a silver ash tray, respectively. The consolation prizes, a hand-painted pin-tray and a German stein were secured by Mrs. W. W. Cross and by L. Lawrence. Light refreshments were served. The following guests were in attendance: Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Parr, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Bradley of Santa Barbara, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Cross, Mrs. Ida Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Spalding, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. McClure, Mr. and Mrs. Z. J. Witten, Mr. and Mrs. L. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Parish.

Mrs. George W. Small entertained the Saturday night club at the Small residence three miles southeast of town this afternoon.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Lindsay, held at that place yesterday afternoon, the following directors were chosen: Susan Mitchell, Ernest Daniels, James N. Reynolds, W. R. Spalding, G. V. Reed, William Pierson and Charles Burr. Immediately after the board met and elected Susan Mitchell president; Ernest Daniels, vice-president, and G. V. Reed, cashier.

At the meeting of the Martha Washington chapter last night the following new members were elected: Mr. and Mrs. George Waddell, Mrs. Belle Styles, Dr. M. L. Pettit, Mrs. A. R. Cutler, and Milo Sipe.

C. H. Lamberson returned this morning from Los Angeles, where he had been for several days on legal business.

RECENTLY DIVORCED LIVE STOCK BODIES TO BE AGAIN UNITED.

DENVER, Oct. 21.—At a conference here today representatives of the American Stock Growers' Association and the National Live Stock Association, an agreement was reached practically merging the two bodies, although several organizations will be maintained until the two organizations hold a convention in this city, January 30th.

The agreement practically is to the effect that the National Live Stock Association be changed to the national Live Stock Commission, whose members shall be entirely made up of producing interests and which shall be a general central assembly or clearing house for all national live stock and breeding associations, these bodies to co-ordinate with each other, but under the central body.

The National Live Stock commission is to appoint standing committees from the various interests, including the packers and railways, these committees to be made up with a majority of their personal actual producers.

OLD SORES SURE SIGNS OF BAD BLOOD OFTEN LEAD TO CANCER

The deep, underlying cause for every old sore is a bad condition of the blood. This vital fluid is not pure and healthy, but has become infected with some germ or poison which prevents the place from healing. These poisons in the blood may be the result of an inactive or sluggish condition of the system, leaving the refuse matters in the body to be absorbed into the circulation, instead of throwing them off through the usual channels of nature. Another cause is the weakening or polluting of this life stream by the remains of some constitutional trouble, or the effects of a long spell of sickness.

When the blood is in this condition, a great running sore or deep offensive ulcer may develop from a slight scratch, bruise or pimple; a harmless looking wart or mole, roughly handled, often becomes an ulcerating spot which may degenerate into Cancer dangerous and destructive. Persons with inherited blood taint are also apt to be afflicted with sores and ulcers. Being born with an unhealthy blood supply, the different parts of the body are never fully nourished, and when middle life is reached or passed, the tissues in some weak point break down and a chronic sore is formed, and kept open by the poisons in the blood.

How aggravating and stubborn these sores and ulcers are is best known by those who have treated and nursed one for years, applying salves, lotions, plasters, etc., with no good results. The place remains and continues its work of destruction by eating deeper into the surrounding flesh; festering, discharging, requiring constant attention, and undermining the general health by its action on the system. One of the most common evidences of impure blood is dry sores, which are usually on the face. These continue sometimes for years with apparently no change, the scab dropping off and re-forming at intervals; but when the vital energies begin to weaken, the place grows red and tender, a slight discharge commences, it takes on an angry, inflamed appearance, and usually terminates in Cancer.

It is a waste of valuable time to treat these places with external applications and expect a cure. True these keep the parts clean and are beneficial in this way, but they do not reach the real trouble. You may glaze the surface over with them for awhile, but the poison is at work deeper down, and constantly eating nearer the vital parts and damaging the entire health. The practice of cutting out the diseased parts and scraping the bone is often resorted to, but even these severe measures do no good. The sore may be removed, and for a time heal over, but the same poison which produced it the first time is still in the blood, and it will return, because THE BLOOD CANNOT BE CUT AWAY.

The only treatment that can do any good is a competent blood purifier—one that goes to the very root and removes the cause, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. It begins at the fountain-head and drives out all poisonous matter and germs; freshens and strengthens the deteriorated blood and makes a lasting cure. As soon as the system gets under the influence of S. S. S. the sore begins to improve, the inflammation gradually leaves, the discharge grows less and less, the flesh takes on healthy color, a scab forms, and when it drops off the place is permanently healed. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, and while cleansing the blood, it builds up the entire system by its fine tonic effect. If afflicted with an old sore or ulcer, do not waste time with experimental remedies and risk its becoming a Cancer, but get the poison out of your blood with S. S. S. 1835 TULARE ST. HELLO 1063

IN A TOURIST SLEEPER

FROM CALIFORNIA TO

Just In His Line.
"Why did they hire a blacksmith for a dramatic critic?"
"He is so adept in the use of the hammer."

A FROLIC WITH THE FUNNY MEN

Good Things.
"Say what you please, there are some good things about Bunko."
"Good things! Yes, and he works 'em all."

IT LOOKED THAT WAY.

She: "Do you think that the automobile will displace the horse?"
He (nervously gazing down the road): "It will, if it ever hits him."

LIKE A BARGAIN.

He: "Well, anyway, when I proposed to you you snapped me up promptly enough."
She: "Yes, I was only a woman, and you did look cheap."

HE KNEW WHY.

"Johnny," said the mother, who had him across her knee, "this hurts me worse than it does you."
"I was afraid," said Johnny under his breath, "that hard board I put in the seat of my trousers might injure her delicate hand."

EXPERIENCED.

"What position of authority have you held?" was one of the questions that were asked of a recent candidate for the appointment as a police matron.
"Authority over my husband," was the reply.

POINT OF VIEW.

She—I think every woman is entitled to be considered man's equal.
He (her admirer)—Well, if she is willing to bring herself down to his level I don't see any reason why she shouldn't be allowed to pose as his equal.

DRAMATIC CRITICISM.

He (after the show): "I guess the curtain must have fallen too hard on the first act."
She: "Why, what do you mean?"
He: "That might account for the play being so flat."

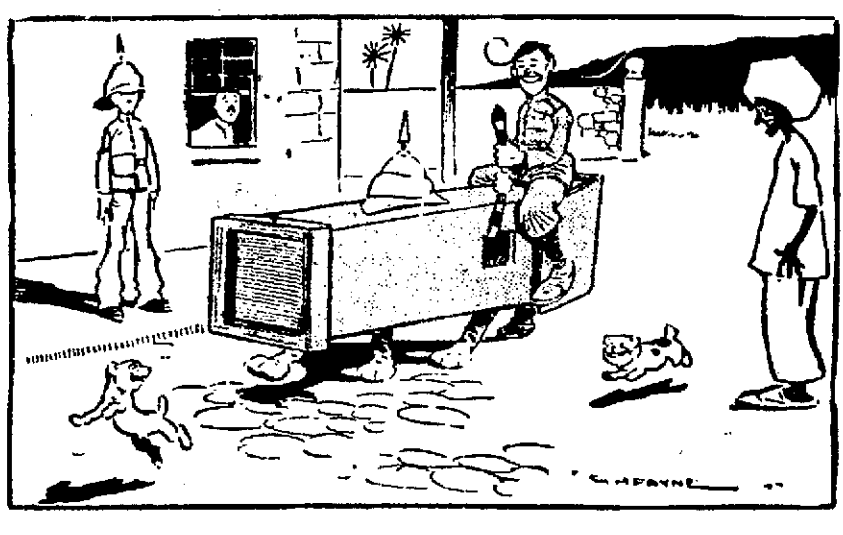

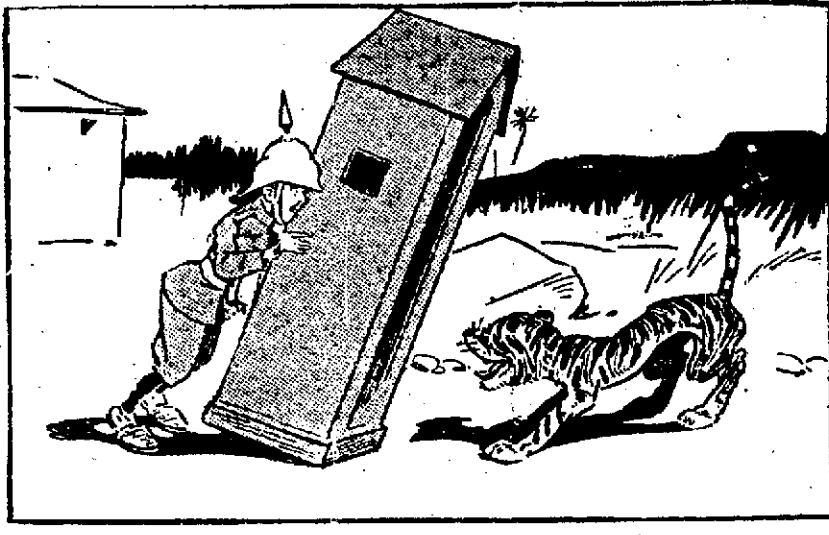

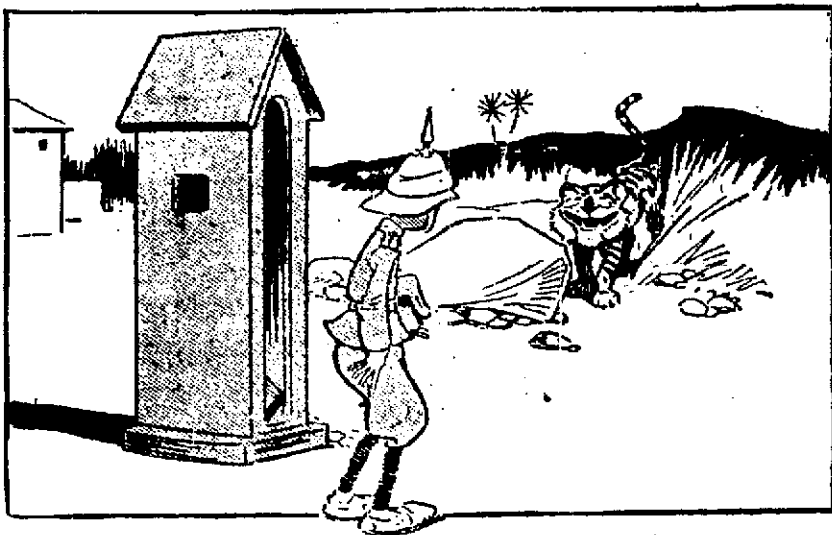

Remained to Be Seen.

"How many lovers has the heroine of that story?"
"I don't know. I have only got to chapter ten."

Not Worried.
"I should think you'd be afraid to let your little boys run your automobile."
"Oh, no; I have it insured."

Her Face.
He—She seems to think her face is her fortune.
She—Yes, poor thing, and it's mostly counterfeit too.

THE BRAVE SOLDIER BOY AND THE TIGER.

Look Out For 'Em.
Mrs. New—Wasn't that a nice, genial gentleman we met on the train?
Mr. New—I thought him only con-genial.

Coward or Freak.
"No one but a coward will talk behind a man's back."
"Well, no one but a freak will talk behind a man's front."

Boomer.
"What did Boomer do when his auto broke down?"
"He at once formed a company to push it."

PROOF POSITIVE.

Dolly: "But how do you know sleeping in the open air is healthy?"
Jones: "Have you ever seen an invalid policeman?"

TAKEN FROM LIFE.

Author—The hero of my story is a man who doesn't know where to turn for a dollar.
Friend—Is it an autobiography?

PERFECTLY SATISFACTORY.
Helen—You seem perfectly satisfied with your new gown.
Phoebe—Yes. It has been approved by the man I like best and condemned by the woman I like most.

NO REASON.

Jack (after a wait)—Do you know I could die waiting?
Ethel (out of breath)—Perhaps you could, but that is no reason why you should expect others to die with you.

ONE WAY TO KEEP THEM.

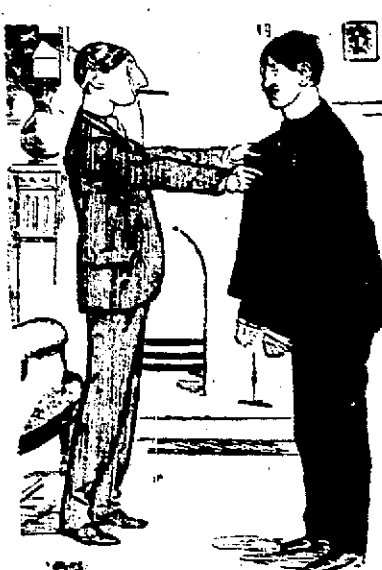

Mrs. Fuss—I have kept my last hired girl a month.
Mrs. Flip—Dear me! Do you keep her locked up?

GOING TO EXTREMES.

The Officer: "I will throw my heart at your feet."
The Lady: "There you are! You always go to extremes."

ONE ON HIM.

"Bah Jove! I feel offended at Miss Woose."
"What now, dear boy?"
"Why, as I entered the door I heard her say, 'Here is where the joke comes in.'"

DON'T GO THAT WAY.

"Can you catch the toothache as you do the measles?"
"I don't know whether you can catch it. I know you can't lose it."

NOT SUPERSTITIOUS.

"He doesn't like to begin work on Friday."
"He must be superstitious."
"It isn't the day so much as the work that he objects to."

A REMINDER.

The Culprit—Before you begin, pa, tell me one of those funny stories of yours about what a terror of a kid you used to be.

HOPE FOR HIM.

"What profession is your son following?"
"He is a journalist."
"Well, don't be discouraged. If he works hard he may grow into a newspaper man."

FOOD FOR FISHES.

Sammy was sitting at the breakfast table eating a codfish ball. He said, "Mamma, this fish must have eaten a great deal of potato."

REVISED VERSION.

Teacher—Do you remember that expression, Tommie, about fools and angels?
Tommie—Yes, ma'am—fools butt in where angels fear to tread.

GOOD CAUSE.

"Don't you think Miss Lingerlong's face looks rather worn?"
"Well, she has been wearing it since 1870."

GLAD OF IT.

"Old man Sigbee is the stingiest man alive."
"How do you prove it?"
"He is tickled to death because he is baldheaded and does not have to pay the barber to cut his hair."

SHE'D SURELY TELL IT.

Mrs. Gossip (quarreling)—I suppose you think what you say goes?
Mr. Gossip—It does, if you hear it.

A SEASIDE SUBSTITUTE.

Maud—She's a great favorite with every girl here.
Blanche—Indeed! Why?
Maud—Because she's so mannish looking.

THE MAN'S MOTHER THOUGHT.

"Do you think she is a suitable match for your son, Mrs. Bagstock?"
"Oh, no; but, then, I suppose he must marry somebody."

WHEN IT WAS SERIOUS.

"Helen, do you appreciate the fact that marriage is a serious affair?"
"Yes, father. At least I did think it was until Tom finally proposed."

EASILY SATISFIED.

"Don't you think Fred Barker is very hard to please?"
"No. He seems very well satisfied with himself."

KNOWS ENOUGH TO STAY IN.

Clarence: "A fellow told me today that I didn't know enough to go in when it rained."
Miss Wise: "And what did you say?"
Clarence: "I assured him it was quite unnecessary, because I never go out when it rains."

America's Premier Family of Railroad Princes

THE Vanderbilts have been building the family fortune for a hundred years. The Rothschilds—long the synonym of wealth beyond computation and the word which has almost displaced Croesus as a term of comparison—began to pile up treasure in the middle of the eighteenth century. At the present time the Rothschild holdings, divided among twenty families, are estimated at $100,000,000. The founder of the Vanderbilt millions—now aggregating $450,000,000—was a boy of eighteen when the old Frankfurt banker's life of singular prosperity and probity was brought to a close, but he had already entered upon that career of successful accumulation which enabled him to bequeath $50,000,000 to his favorite son.

There had been Vanderbilts in America for more than a hundred years before the birth of Cornelius, the one who was destined to rescue the family from the obscurity under which it had thriven in numbers, but not in wealth. The first one of the race came as early as 1650 and settled at Flushing, on Long Island. He was Jan Aertsen Van der Bilt, a sturdy peasant from the Netherlands, and if some prophetic seer had told him that when the twentieth century was still young one of his descendants would reign as mistress of Blenheim, the foundation of England's greatest fighter, John Churchill, first duke of Marlborough, who was born the very year in which the stolid Dutchman came to America, he would have shaken his head and continued to smoke placidly. After Jan there was an Aris, and he was followed by a Jacob, and the only thing that is recorded of that worthy is that he emigrated to Staten Island, which was something of an achievement in those days.

Jacob was the grandfather of Cornelius, known to his contemporaries and to posterity as "the commodore." The latter's father was also Cornelius, a name as characteristic of the Vanderbilts as is John Jacob of the Astors. The elder Cornelius was the premier Staten Island ferryman, having become the proprietor of a small boat at the age of seventeen, in which he used to carry passengers between the island and the mainland. He was twenty-six before he had saved money enough to take a wife. He was reputed to be rather thrifty, and his fiancée stipulated that she should be made the depositary of his earnings until enough had been accumulated to begin housekeeping. This excellent woman, Phoebe Hand, the adopted daughter of a Dutch Reformed minister at Port Richmond, then the chief settlement on the island, seems to have been a person of uncommon shrewdness. She liked Cornelius, but was not at all deceived as to the slowness of his business methods. She did not even allow him to go to the city to transact his business. She convinced herself, however, that she could supply what he lacked, and she married him with that understanding.

The marriage of this Mrs. Vanderbilt was in striking contrast to some of the family weddings of recent years. It took place in the little Port Richmond meeting house on Sunday morning after a sermon nearly two hours long and the singing of the Forty-fifth Psalm by the congregation. From this marriage there came seven sons, none of them in any way remarkable except Cornelius, the second, born in 1794. He began to show the money making tendency at quite an early age. When he was sixteen he wanted to buy a sailboat and he asked his mother to advance the $100 necessary to secure it. She reminded him that his birthday was near, at hand and promised that if he would plow, harrow and plant their patch of eight acres before the anniversary she would let him have the money. It is quite likely that she was not expected to accomplish the undertaking, for it was rather a big job for a boy. Cornelius was equal to it, however. He originated a plowing competition among the neighboring boys which engendered an enthusiasm that would have completed an even greater task, and they did his work within the prescribed time. Mrs. Vanderbilt fulfilled her part of the bargain, and Cornelius became master of the boat, with which he established a ferry with regular sailings between Staten Island and New York.

looking after the welfare of the guests' horses. Shortly afterward Mr. Gibbons, Cornelius' New York patron, began to operate a steamboat line between New York and New Brunswick, and he made young Vanderbilt captain of the first boat. In the course of time Gibbons withdrew from the business and Vanderbilt continued it on his own account. He branched out gradually, establishing steamboat lines on the Hudson and also on Long Island sound, and eventually going into the coast-ma railroad connecting the two. Later Vanderbilt returned to the Nicaragua scheme of reaching the Pacific, using the San Juan river and Lake Nicaragua to cross the isthmus. This enterprise was enormously profitable. Before he retired from the isthmian trade Vanderbilt had made over $1,000,000. In the meantime the Vanderbilts had removed to New York city. Mrs. Vanderbilt did not find city life congenial and the commodore built a house on Staten Island, in which they lived for several years. Later, how-unsatisfactory. He preferred to settle his own disputes, and his methods of doing so were sometimes exceedingly drastic. It was about this time that the famous struggle between the commodore and Daniel Drew occurred, the bone of contention being the control of navigation on the Hudson river. Drew was plucky and held his own for a long time and fought with all the resources that his Erie railroad and rival river line put into his hands, but he lost and died a poor man. In 1856 Vanderbilt set afloat his famous line of steamers between New York and Havre. This venture was a great success, but the commodore had become so interested in railroading that transatlantic navigation lost its charm for him, and he gave it up. Very early in the history of the New York, New Haven and Hamford railroad Mr. Vanderbilt befell into his hands. Before he was through, the Lake Shore and Michigan Central roads were acquired and the Canada Southern was built. In 1869, his first wife having died, he married Frances Crawford, a southern woman, and through her influence gave $1,000,000 to establish Vanderbilt university at Nashville, Tenn. He was likewise a true friend to the government during the civil war, giving Uncle Sam a ship when he needed one sorely. Commodore Vanderbilt had twelve children by his first wife and one by his second. Two died in infancy. His eldest son, Cornelius, was a near-do-well and was left the income of $20,000. Nine of the family were daughters, and eight of them reached womanhood and married, and their progeny now numbers more than two scores. William Henry, the second son, was not a favorite and was neglected shamefully.

When William was past forty the commodore discovered that he had made a mistake—that his neglected son was really good for something. He called him to New York and as a starter made him vice president of the Harlem. Before the old man's death William was practically the head of the system, and his father made amends for his early neglect by having him $20,000,000 and the richest man in America. Within five years thereafter the new Vanderbilt had increased this sum to $120,000,000. He was undoubtedly the most competent railroad manager the world had ever seen. Less speculative even than his father, he had a positive genius for development, and under his control the system flourished wonderfully. He lost millions in the fight with the Gould cohorts, but he recovered it all and added to it by skillful management of the properties. At his death he divided $120,000,000 between his sons: Cornelius and William K., and gave $10,000,000 to each of his other six children—two boys and four girls—besides $20,000,000 in additional bequests.

William K.'s sons—Cornelius, William K., Frederick W. and George W.—are all living except Cornelius, who died of paralysis at the age of fifty-six. The four daughters became Mrs. Elliot P. Shepard, Mrs. W. Seward Webb, Mrs. H. McKay Twombly and Mrs. W. D. Sloane. Of the four sons-in-law Mr. Sloane was the only one who was wealthy, his father having been a rich carpet manufacturer. Although the father left Cornelius and William K., the elder boys, the bulk of his estate divided into two equal portions, he stipulated that Cornelius, the oldest, should be regarded as the head of the family. Both sons married young—Cornelius Miss Alice Gwynne of Ohio, and William K. Miss Alva Smith of Alabama. At their father's death both of the sons developed into good business men, and their families became prominent in the social world. In 1896 William K. and his wife were divorced and nine years later he married Mrs. Rutnerford, sister of Oliver Harriman, Jr. His former wife became Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Frederick W., the third son, now forty-eight, has been the least conspicuous of the family and spends most of his time at Hyde Park, his beautiful estate on the Hudson. George W., the youngest, forty-two years of age, is a man of marked scholarly tastes. He married Edith Stuyvesant Dresser, and they spend most of the time at Baltimore, their princely North Carolina estate. They have one child, a little girl named Cornelia. It is related of this Vanderbilt that he used to spend $20,000 a year on himself and $200,000 in charity.

Seven children were born to Cornelius Vanderbilt 2d—four sons and three daughters. Both the eldest son and the eldest daughter are dead. Those living are Cornelius 3d, Gertrude, now Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney; Alfred Gwynne, Reginald Claypool, and Gladys. William K.'s children by his former wife are Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough; William Kissam, Jr., and Harold Sterling. The marriage of Cornelius 3d and Miss Payne Whitney was the cause of a rupture between the young man and his father, and Alfred Gwynne, the next son, was made the heir.

Among all the living descendants of the commodore Cornelius 3d is the only one who bears any resemblance to the founder of the family. His many determination to be the arbiter of his own fortune and to wed the woman of his choice followed by his inheritance and subsequent heroic acceptance of the situation, gave him a warm place in the affections of the American people. Alfred and Reginald are leading exponents of the fashionable set and are both married. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., who married Virginia Fair, daughter of a famous Boston king, is reported to have a business turn of mind. His younger brother, Harold, is still in college.

cleared $1,000, which was doing remarkably well in those days. When he was eighteen he owned two boats, was captain of a third and was worth $9,000, quite a fortune in 1812. That was the year of the war with England and young Vanderbilt made considerable money by carrying government supplies between New York and the forts at the Narrows. He had done so well that he began to think of settling down, and when he was nineteen he married Sophia Johnson, a young woman whom he had admired greatly for some time.

Fortune favored him. One stormy night he closed his ferry on account of the rough water and went into the nearby tavern to get a little refreshment. There he met James Gibbons, a wealthy trader, who was so anxious to be ferried across to New York that he was willing to take any chance and pay almost any fee. Vanderbilt was attracted by the prospect and finally agreed to make the trial, although he felt doubtful as to the result. After a terrific struggle with the wind and waves the venturesome boatman and his equally reckless passenger made the New York shore. Gibbons was so pleased with the young ferryman that he invited him to visit him and presented him with a new oyster smack. So Cornelius went into the oyster business. His wife was a famous cook, and it occurred to him that it was mere selfishness on his part to monopolize the product of her industry, so he leased a hotel at New Brunswick, then a famous stopover point for travelers between New York and Philadelphia, and installed her therein as hostess. This double industry thrived admirably. Cornelius peddled shellfish, which he brought in boat loads from Perth Amboy, and his wife proved herself abundantly able to manage the tavern, even to tending the bar and wise trade, his schooners sailing as far south as New Orleans. At one time he was in partnership with the famous speculator George Law, and they owned a line of clipper ships which were the forerunners of the transatlantic liners of today.

When he was thirty-five, Cornelius was worth $30,000. It had always been a favorite theory of his that no man should accumulate more than $20,000, but his prosperity had landed him considerably beyond that limit and he revised his views, making the sum $50,000. At this time also he began to be known as commodore. In 1844 he opened a line of steamers to Nicaragua as a link in the transisthmian route to California, which had begun to attract attention. The venture was not especially successful, but in 1850, the year following the discovery of gold in California, Cornelius established a line of boats to Aspinwall in opposition to the Pacific Mail Steamship company, which precipitated a lively war. It ended in a compromise, Vanderbilt obtaining sole control of the Atlantic portion of the route and the rival line retaining the Pacific link, the newly built Pana-gan to invest in the stock. He was worth about $10,000,000 at this time, and he had entirely abandoned his idea of a limit. The one thing in life which seemed desirable to him was to double his available capital as speedily as possible. He was also exceedingly chary of risk, and he realized that ocean steamers were not only costly, but that they frequently went to the bottom. So he determined to put his money in railroads. In 1863 the commodore secured control of the Harlem road. He bought as much stock of the Hudson River road as he could, always under cover, and in the course of time the property was his father declined to expend any money on his education, and, finally, when the boy was seventeen and thoroughly disheartened, he left home and went to work for a bank at $300 per annum. When his salary reached $16 a week he married Maria Louise Kissam, the daughter of a Brooklyn minister. The commodore did not approve of the match and declared that he would never do anything for William. For twenty years he kept his word, his son in the meantime working faithfully and prospering moderately. Then the crusty parent began to relent and gave his son a seventy acre farm on Staten Island.

Even in the days when his father was no higher in the official world than civil service commissioner the Roosevelts' family connections gave them the entree to the most exclusive social circles of the capital and the young woman has been familiar with the punctilious machinery of official etiquette for many years, but it has not dulled her impression of her free and buoyant spirit. She could not by any stretch of the imagination be called a beauty, although she is an exceedingly attractive young woman, with a fresh blond complexion, girlish figure and a supple and erect carriage that gives her an individual grace and aplomb which are distinctive.

In her love for the outdoor life and activity and readiness to assume the initiative Miss Roosevelt is almost the counterpart of her father. There is no doubt whatever that she has made the most of her opportunities to see life in its legitimate phases, and she has accomplished it with a cleverness and verve that have been the admiration of the world. It is one of the most convincing proofs of her father's confidence in her level headedness that he has permitted her to go about the world so freely on her own responsibility, and it is greatly to her credit that she has been able to confirm his judgment in such a positive manner. The attention she received on the recent tour would have turned the head of the average American traveler. Had she been the daughter of an emperor she could not have been welcomed with greater pomp and circumstance. It was a hopeless task to convince the eastern mind that the young woman who was the daughter of the ruler of the greatest republic on earth was really an American girl with no official position whatever. When the steamer carrying the party reached Yokohama she was one of the first to land and found the city en fete in her honor. Representatives of the imperial household greeted her at the landing, thousands crowded the streets to catch a glimpse of the strange princess, and cheering mobs made the air resound with "Banzai!" the Japanese hurrah. At Tokyo the mikado and empress received Miss Alice at an audience, which was the most magnificent in the history of the present reign. It was an imposing spectacle, and Miss Roosevelt was the central figure of it all. The fortnight in the island empire was a constant vision, such as no American girl has ever before received. The minister of war, the gallant Terauchi, gave her a brilliant reception party, and many of the great men of the empire entertained her at luncheon. The mikado threw open his private gardens for her entertainment—a concession never before granted to any foreigner—and Marquis Ito composed a poem in honor of the occasion. Her visit to the Chinese empress dowager was even more remarkable. That potentate, who in her own country is accorded almost supreme honor, received the young American visitor on terms of perfect equality and seems to have conceived a decided liking for her.

Nicholas Longworth, Miss Roosevelt's fellow voyager who is reputed to be the fortunate hero of a romance which will end in a life partnership, is a congressman from Cincinnati, O., and is not a new acquaintance. Miss Roosevelt has known him for a long time and has visited his mother at their beautiful home in the aristocratic suburb of Walnut Hills. The Longworths are an old and wealthy family and figure prominently in Ohio history. Mr. Longworth is now about thirty-five years of age, was graduated from Harvard in 1891, from the Cincinnati Law School in 1894 and was elected to Congress a little over a year ago. He is a prominent figure in Washington society, and it is well known at the capital that he has admired the president's daughter for a long time. Some time ago it was rumored that Mr. Longworth was devoted to the Countess Marguerite Casini, adopted daughter of the Russian ambassador, but more recently he seems to prefer the society of Miss Roosevelt. TRUMAN L. ELTON.

Daughter of the President and Her Reputed Fiance

THERE have been few young women in America, or for that matter in any other country, who have received so much newspaper attention as has Miss Alice Roosevelt. Since the day when the distinction of being a young lady occupant of the White House became hers public interest in her has never for a moment wavered. Her recent tour to the Philippines as a member of Secretary Taft's investigating party has contributed liberally to the journalist's opportunity, and he has not neglected it.

From the first all the world has been looking to Alice Roosevelt for a romance. Thus far this capable young woman has held herself in hand as firmly and as steadily as she might a pair of spirited horses and has driven her social chariot down the line with all the composure and unaffected grace of a mistress of the reins. She cannot dance, drive or even with young men twice in succession without seeing her engagement announced in the morning papers. Yet although she has danced, walked and driven with scores of marriageable young men and has been flattered, courted and admired to a degree that might have turned the head of many another less capable young woman she has moved serenely on, whole of heart and free from "entangling alliances," unless, indeed, the reports which persist in affirming that Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, who was her most devoted cavalier during the eastern tour, is the happy man should prove to be correct.

For thirty years previous to the Roosevelt administration at the White House had occupied the White House. The Grants had been the last, and when the Roosevelts became the tenants of the big national mansion the society of the capital girded its loins and made ready for a new social experience. As it happened, the young debutante was peculiarly qualified for the position she was called upon to suddenly assume. She was very youthful—not yet eighteen—but if her future could have been foreseen she could not have received a more suitable preparation for it. She had never shown a fondness for the life of a student, but she had always been a willing recipient of all the knowledge which is so essential in the capital's social atmosphere—a speaking familiarity with the most commonly used modern languages and, above all, a positive gift for conversation of the sort that sparkles at the polyglot White House receptions. From the first she was a success and a credit to the reputation which the American girl has appropriated—she was interesting. She was also natural and free from self-consciousness, and she has never been accused of any attempt at coquettishness.

Alice Roosevelt was born Feb. 9, 1884, and the date of her birth was also that of the death of her mother and of her paternal grandmother, who was Martha Bullock of Georgia. Before Alice was old enough to realize her loss her father married again, and the new mother saw to it that the little girl never had a bitter awakening. The child was educated at home by a governess who had taught her mother, and when she was older she had special masters, for her father saw that she did not inherit his love of study, and he determined to cultivate such talent as she developed to its fullest extent. She manifested a capacity to acquire modern languages, and the best of masters were provided. She became an excellent German and French scholar and is also an accomplished musician. Miss Roosevelt spent the larger part of her girlhood days in Washington, from the outer part of the palm nut, not from the kernel. China, the great mass of people live on less than 10 cents a day. Signor Luzzatti of Italy considers that two sums of about $100,000,000 each will be required to enable the state to acquire and run the railways of that country, the first for buying out all the interest of the companies, the second for the expenses which must necessarily be incurred in working the railways and getting them into a proper state of efficiency during the next ten years. Dams and reservoirs at Greeley, Colo., will be constructed by a private company to provide for the storage of 2,000,000,000 feet of water. Eight lake reservoirs will be established or enlarged, and a distribution system built, which will cost $300,000.

A medical missionary at Pakhoi writes: "We get an immense variety of diseases," but never diphtheria, scarlet fever or diptheria. On the other hand, we get every skin disease; there is and every eye disease known from a professional point of view, many affording the greatest clinical interest. Our clinic would be the envy of many a professional man in Europe, and indeed it would make a splendid training ground for a medical career. One of the most singular of the many curious fossils yielded by the famous opal fields at White Cliffs, N. S. W., is an opalized shark. It is three and a half feet long and sixteen inches

In some German towns children are allowed to travel free on the local railway cars if they are under a certain height, which is marked on the doors of the vehicle. An English missionary, writing from the far east, describes the case of a pirate who, after being treated for a bullet wound of the leg, stole money from his fellow patients and as soon as he could use his leg again left the hospital with a blanket. The business of selling the mandarin rank in China has been so much overdone that buyers are becoming scarce. The railways now existing or under construction in China already have a 2,235 mileage. FRESNO VS. PRESIDIO NEW MASONIC LODGE

IT'S UP TO EACH TEAM TO WIN TODAY.

Both Making Hard Race For Pen- nant and Today's Game May Be Decisive.

Today Fresno and Presidio will meet again, and the fans are promised a fast exhibition. The Presidio team has proved the most formidable traveling team in the league ever since it was organized. So far it has defeated Stockton, Fresno and San Jose, and has in turn been defeated by each of those teams. This afternoon will be a battle royal, for on its outcome may depend the chances of both teams for winning the pennant. The soldiers have had two successive defeats and have lost one more game than the locals, and have not played as many for the season. Should they lose today they drop under the 500 mark. On the other hand, should Fresno lose today, it puts Fresno behind Stockton and just about on a level with San Jose. So it is up to both teams to play mighty fast ball.

All the fans who want to see Fresno win out should be on hand today with their voices tuned for "rooting." It will take all the encouragement the local boys can get to help them to victory and all loyal fans should be ready to give that encouragement.

The game will be called promptly at 2:45 o'clock. Charley Burleigh will umpire and the kicking that characterized last Sunday's contest when an amateur umpire officiated will be obviated. Following is the way the teams will line-up today:

KENTUCKIAN ON FRESNO.

He Met True Kentucky Hospitality and Carried Away Good Impression.

Lewis L. Johnson of Mayfield, Kentucky, recently made a trip over the Pacific Coast and has written an account of it to his home paper, the Mayfield Messenger. He visited Fresno and says of this city:

"My next stop was at Fresno, a city of 25,000 inhabitants, which is located in the center of the great arid Joaquin valley. In this valley is grown all kinds of fruit known to a Southern climate. Its oranges, lemons, figs, prunes, peaches, raisins and grapes are said to be the best in the world.

"At this place old Kentucky hospitality was met with again, dealt out by the hands of the Kentucky people who have settled there. Through the kindness of Miss Lula Corban I was shown through all places of interest, including the large packing houses which work about 4000 people packing fruit ready to be shipped. We visited what is known as Sunny Side, six miles from town on one side, and Kearney Park, eight miles, the other way. Kearney Park is owned exclusively by one man and cost over $3,000,000. He has all kinds of evergreens and flowers that are known to the civilized world. He also spent over $40,000 in beautifying an avenue from his park to town, a distance of eight miles. He has an observatory 150 feet high, and standing in that observatory I could see lands for forty miles each way, covered with orchards and vineyards and at the same time see snow on the mountains seventy miles away."

CRANE'S EXAMINATION.

Court Takes Greek Slayer's Case Under Adversement.

The preliminary examination of W. E. Crane on a charge of murder took the greater part of the day yesterday before Judge Briggs in the Police court. Testimony was introduced both by the prosecution and defense, and at the close the judge took the case under advisement. It is agreed that the charge will be only one of manslaughter in any case.

The main reliance of the prosecution, which is being conducted by District Attorney Jones, assisted by W. D. Tupper, acting for the brother of the dead man, is upon the dying statement of John Karagias, made to George Karagias in the presence of George Lakas and others. This statement is reported to be that the man was walking along the path close to the dwelling of the Cranes, when he was without warning shot at. A number of other witnesses were put on the stand to testify to events after the finding of the wounded man upon Merced street. Antonio, the Italian boy, who first found Karagias, was not put on the stand. Nefo and George Papageorgi, Officers Farnum and Perry, were the other witnesses.

Crichton and St. John appeared for Crane. Their only witness was Mrs. Crane, who told the same story as at the inquest, stating that she heard a noise after retiring, saw a man's shadow at the window and aroused her husband, who got his pistol, slipped out of the front door, and shot at the fellow. She testified that Crane called after the man, telling him to stop, before shooting a second time.

The attorneys agreed to submit without argument. The judge stated that he wished to look up the law with regard to homicide in attempted felonies, and took the case under advisement until next week.

TODAY'S REVIVAL MEETINGS.

Rev. Bulgin Will Speak This Afternoon and Evening.

There were no services in the big revival tent last night as the churchgoers desired to attend the convention of the W. C. T. U. The first service in the tent today will be at 3 o'clock this afternoon. This will give all congregations an opportunity to hold their regular Sunday morning meetings.

At 2:30 o'clock the Christian Workers' class will meet in the Cumberland Presbyterian church for prayer. The meeting will close at 4 o'clock. The subject of Evangelist E. J. Bulgin's sermon for the afternoon will be "Queen Esther." The evening's subject will be "Is the Bible Inspired?" Singing at night will commence at 7:30 o'clock as usual.

P. Otto Gates, the singer accompanying Rev. Bulgin, will sing at the First Methodist church at the morning service.

New Teacher in Madison.

The Madison school district has been supplied with a teacher. The county superintendent's office has telegraphed to Miss Lily Falk, formerly a teacher in Maturo county, in San Francisco, and has notified her that her application has been accepted. The vacancy in the Madison district was made by the resignation of Miss Blanche Mitchell, who has been elected to teach in the city schools. Mrs. Walden has taken Miss Mitchell's place as principal and

You Can Afford to Dress Well In fact You Can't Afford Not to

Some men buy two or three of our suits, enjoy a frequent change, look well all the time. It's economy "to rest" your clothes. You can do it, too, if you'll invest your clothes money in the right way. Ask for Irving Winter's special, $10.00 to $30.00. Wear the Eastern styles.

THE TOGGERY

1940 TULARE ST. IRVING WINTER, Prop. Fresno's Own Boy.

Miss Falk will take the grades taught by Mrs. Walden.

Greetings, Fellow Christians! Regardless of denominations. There are to be held two bible study meetings for the promotion of Christian knowledge, and not to build up another sect, of which, as all agree, there are already too many. These lectures or discourses, are to be held in St. Andrew's Hall, 414 Green building, corner J and E. Edgerly block, over postoffice, on the evenings of October 25th and 28th. By Pilgrim John Harrison, on the subject of the "Millennium, or Christ's Thousand Year Reign and Its Object." All are cordially invited to attend. No collections. Free tracts.

A Monday Sale of Trimmed Hats at $7.50

We are placing on sale tomorrow many elegant hats at a reduction in price from $2.50 to $3.50.

These hats were made expressly for this sale; we have tried to see how much value we could crowd into them; they are being sold at a very low figure purposely—we want the publicity that the sale of the hats will give, the favorable comment, the kind words that will be spoken about us.

It is our way of business building—doing things.

Ready-to-Wear Hats Get a Showing

- $2.75—A very pretty ready to wear hat of dark felt; made with a big collar around the crown; felt trimmings held in place with buttons and finished with wings; colors, navy, blue or black.

$2.00—A new felt, ready to wear hat, slashed in the back and caught up in the crown; velvet bound edges; gold ornaments; a new style that is very fetching and becoming.
- 79c—Stitched sailor hats; white canvas and felt binding; a very effective combination; felt trimmings; colors white, navy, red, blue or black.
